Fierce Battle Waged By Reds in Defense Of Black Sea Base

MOSCOW, Tuesday, Aug. 11.—Powerful German armies have swept to the vicinity of Maikop in the Caucasus and the Russians along a broad front are fighting a fierce defensive battle with their backs to the Black sea, it was revealed by the Russian midnight communique today.

Indian Troops Join Police in Fighting Riots

BOMBAY, Aug. 10.—(P)—Mohandas Gandhi's "do or die" zealots defied police bullets time after time in Bombay and elsewhere today, rioting and striking in prolonged response to the All-India Congress campaign of mass civil disobedience designed to drive the British from this subcontinent.

In Bombay alone in two days of disorder police and troops fired on crowds about ten times, a provincial government communique said tonight. There were numerous casualties today, in addition to the 15 dead and scores injured on Sunday. Of Sunday's casualties, eight were slain and 189 injured in the Bombay area alone.

Late today the situation was growing progressively worse in northern sections of this city, with crowds stoning trains, cutting wires and smashing police lamps. A post office was attacked; several buses were damaged badly and abandoned by their drivers.

Regular troops deployed throughout Bombay in patrols ranging from a dozen to a full platoon, but for the most part they merely stood armed guard about their trucks, leaving actual repressive measures to the police.

Twice in the Dadar area of Bombay these policemen fired on a large and violent crowd which was attacking suburban trains with any weapon that came to hand. At least 27 of the demonstrators were wounded.

Striving for "complete deadlock" through so-called non-violent means, workers walked out of eighteen Bombay cotton mills. Trading on all Bombay markets was suspended, and there was talk of strikes in the big mill center of Ahmedabad. In a number of places schools, colleges and shops were closed.

Assemblages Banned.
A government grain store was burned in the Kharavela area of Bombay.

Throughout India the government was outlawing congress committees and party organizations, forbidding parades and assemblages, and extending arrests of congress leaders.

Gandhi and his chief lieutenants were jailed Sunday, in or near Poona.

There was a portent of even greater trouble in the stoning of Moslem shops by Hindus in the south central part of Bombay. Police have the greatest fear of communal riots between these elements—bloodiest of all, and hardest to suppress.

Police prevented attempts to set fire to the Bombay Gas Works and to the Central India Railway station at Dadar, a communique announced. Elsewhere three police stations were set afire, and two were destroyed.

One person was killed and several were injured at the great textile center of Ahmedabad when police fired on a crowd of students near Bujerat College. A battalion of British infantry arrived as strikes spread to the cotton mills.

The Russians were engaged in what appears to be the opening phase of a defense of the vital naval base of Novorossiysk, 60 miles west of Krasnodar, where fighting was reported.

(The Berlin radio said German fighting planes and dive bombers had attacked the Russian Black sea port.)

The Germans already had a firm foothold in the Maikop region, which produces 7 per cent of Russia's oil, and now appeared to be menacing the naval base—one of Russia's most important and one of the last refuges of the Soviet fleet in the Black sea.

It was the first official indication by the Russians that their retreat in the face of smashes by German mechanized and air units had reached the Maikop region. The Germans claimed the capture of the city, important as a petroleum distributing center, Sunday.

The Russian communique said also that heavy fighting in this region extends to Krasnodar and Armavir, indicating a part of the German drive was veering toward the southeast. Another German thrust appeared to be heading into the heart of the Caucasus, to the east.

This depressing news from the Caucasus was relieved somewhat

U. S. Ready To Throw Weight Of Air Force Against Nazis

German Industrial Cities To Be Blasted

LONDON, Aug. 10.—(P)—American fighter and bomber forces "within the immediate future" will join the RAF in blasting Hitler's great industrial cities and driving his planes from the English Channel.

This pledge came today from the commander of the United States Air Forces in the European theater, Major General Carl "Toogy" Spaatz.

He declared further that United States Air Forces eventually would rise to 400,000 fliers and ground crew men and that there was complete co-operation and understanding with the RAF, which now has nearly three full years of active fighting experience with Hitler's planes.

Giving point to his assertions, made shortly after a flying inspection of United States air-dromes in these islands, was the announced arrival of additional contingents of American troops. Air force men as well as units of all other combat forces were in the fresh convoy which arrived on an unspecified date.

Difficult Task.
Thousands upon thousands of American airmen and soldiers have been working day and night adapting British fields to their use, enlarging others and carving out additional bases. Every effort has been made to complete a vast amount of ground work necessary within a record time despite the difficulties of transporting men, planes, gasoline, parts and ground equipment from the United States.

The American Air Force is expected to begin operations on a considerable scale and gradually shoulder a full share of the burden from the RAF in "scouring the Reich."

"Within the immediate future, operations in accordance with plans that have been in the making for some time."

OAKLAND, Cal., Aug. 10.—(P)—Leslie B. Gireth, wealthy Glendale jeweler, was sentenced to death today for the confessed murder of his 21-year-old sweetheart, Dorina Hammer.

Gireth, 37, shot Miss Hammer to death last month in a motor car cabin they occupied at San Leandro.

F. D. R.'s State Casts Primary Ballots Today

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 10.—(P)—President Roosevelt's home state of New York ballots tomorrow in a primary election involving his foreign policy and a Republican effort to unseat Representative Hamilton Fish, long-time party critic of the administration.

Top billing in 25 congressional contests, involving 11 incumbents, is given the intraparty fight led by Wendell L. Willkie to unseat Fish, for 22 years Republican representative from the President's home district.

Willkie, 1940 Republican presidential candidate, urged primary defeat of Fish anew last night in a statement asserting his renomination would give "the opposition the right to use Fish's record as a symbol of Republican political philosophy."

Fish, in a reply, said Willkie is willing to "destroy national unity and lose the war if he can defeat former noninterventionists and make himself the leader of the Republican party as an interventionist."

National attention also is focused on the Empire state balloting because of a Democratic gubernatorial nomination battle that finds Mr. Roosevelt and Democratic State Chairman James A. Farley at odds. Senator James M. Mead and State Attorney General John J. Bennett Jr. are contenders. The President has declared that if he were a delegate to the party's state convention in Brooklyn August 19 he would vote for Mead. Farley is backing Bennett.

American Cruiser Sunk, 2 Damaged; Jap Losses Heavy

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—A force of hard-bitten Marines, spearhead of America's first offensive in the Pacific, has landed on the strategic Solomon Islands flanking Australia and is now engaged in a terrific struggle with counter-attacking Japanese.

Disclosing this today the Navy revealed that the furious assault, in which the Marines were strongly backed by warships and planes, had already cost the United States forces at least one cruiser sunk and two damaged, and two destroyers and one transport also damaged.

The Japanese, whose counter-attack was launched "with rapidity and vigor," have suffered a "large number" of planes destroyed and surface units put out of action, the Navy statement said.

How many lives have been lost in the grim amphibious struggle was not known, but such a landing attack is one of the most difficult operations in warfare and the Navy statement warned that "considerable losses" must be expected.

To Drive Japs Out.
The statement was issued by Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of all American forces. He described the operation as "our first assumption of the initiative and of the offensive" in this war and declared the purpose is to drive the Japs out of the southeasterly Solomon islands, their southernmost point of advance in the Pacific.

In a special statement on the progress of the three-day-old battle, the admiral described the section directly contested as the Tulagi area. Tulagi, the capital of the Solomons, is situated on a small island of the same name, close to the near-by and larger Florida Island.

The broad wording possibly meant that landings had been accomplished not only on Florida but also on the near-by large islands of Guadalcanal and Malaita.

Ghormley in Charge.
Vice Admiral Robert L. Ghormley, 58, naval commander in the south Pacific, is in direct charge of the assault actions under the general control of 57-year-old Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, King said.

The purpose of expelling the Japanese from the Solomons, King said, is to "make use of that area for our own purposes." Such purposes could include the launching of a general offensive to roll the Japanese back through the Dutch East Indies and their mandated islands into the China sea.

King's statement contained the disclosure that the Tulagi action had involved landing operations and that violent fighting—first on a large scale between American and Japanese since the fall of Bataan—actually was in progress. Previously the United States units had been described merely as "naval and other" forces.

The landings were made as

Jap Oil Ample, Returning U. S. Experts Agree

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 10.—(P)—American experts returning from Japanese territory on the Swedish exchange liner Gripsholm seem to be of one mind that from the standpoint of fuel oil the Japanese can go all-out indefinitely with ships, tanks and planes in the Pacific war.

These experts, who were among 1,500 American repatriates stopping off here today en route home, say previously accumulated stocks plus the fields taken by conquest finally have fulfilled the Japanese dream of fuel self-sufficiency.

The one type which they may have difficulty in getting in sufficient quantities is lubricating oil, the experts say.

U. S. Was Source.
Before the war virtually all the lubricating oil used by the Japanese came from the United States. The Pacific fields have a base composed principally of asphalt. A paraffin base is necessary for ready and extensive extraction of the lubricating oil most suitable for tanks and other heavy war machinery.

A survey of fuel oil shows an estimated 40,000,000 barrels in storage in Japan before hostilities started. This is believed to Yesterday's high reading was 88 degrees, around 10 degrees under the usual August temperatures. Low was 70.

Jap Invasion Port Bombed By U. S. Planes

CHUNGKING, Aug. 10.—(P)—Catching the Japanese completely off guard, both fighters and bombers of the U. S. Army Air Force attacked the big invasion port of Haiphong, Indo-China, Sunday and got back to base without a loss, Lieutenant General Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters announced today.

It was the Americans' first raid on Haiphong, and the communique took special note of the "complete lack of hostile opposition" as proving the element of surprise.

The raiders concentrated on shipping and dock facilities, scoring a direct hit on one 4,000-ton steamer, starting a big oil fire near the docks and planting all their bombs in the target area. Then fighters which escorted the bombers machine-gunned the piers.

The Japanese have been using Haiphong as a port of entry for troops and supplies since September of 1940, when the Vichy regime in defeated France made the first of its "agreements" with Tokyo permitting progressive occupation of the colony.

The city is on the Gulf of Tonkin in north Indo-China, less than 100 miles from the Chinese border.

Meanwhile, the principal land fighting of the China campaign was being waged around the enemy-occupied city of Linchuan, in central Kiangsi province, which the Chinese say they have surrounded.

Some Chinese troops were actually in the suburbs, official advisers said.

Atlanta's first fancy blackout with flour bombs and noise enough to convince anyone that a real air raid is in progress, will be held August 24, George M. Phillips, director of civilian defense for the metropolitan area, said yesterday.

Approval for the blackout was received yesterday, he said. Another whiteout will be held next Monday night between 9 and 11 o'clock as a last test for preparing workers for the big one.

How Marines' Amphibious Corps Does Its Work

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—The job of the Marines' amphibious corps is to establish a bridgehead on a hostile coast. It must make a landing in the face of shore and air defense and establish a "safe area" for nine or ten miles from the shore, beyond the range of the enemy artillery, in which vast numbers of troops can be landed and organized.

Snub-nosed, low-slung landing boats, with twin machineguns jutting from their armored bows and from 30 to 50 fully armed Leathernecks loaded aboard, strike most effectively against resistance in landing attacks, Marine Corps officials said today.

They are piloted by a Navy man or Coast Guardsman. The Marines climb down the side of the large Navy ships or transports into the landing boats, into which is lowered their full battle equipment, including light machineguns. Later the vessels are used to bring up the heavier guns and mortars.

Protection of Fleet.

After the landing boats are loaded and maneuvered into rendezvous, they approach the shore in waves with the armored bow and with the helmsman the only occupant visible from the shore. As the boats approach the shore, the big guns of the fleet blast loose at the enemy's shore installations while fleet Marine force planes bomb and strafe from overhead.

After the enemy's beach installations have been silenced, the barrage rests and the men hit the shallow water carrying their weapons overhead and make a mad dash to the beach.

At this stage the Marines, as they jump ashore, become visible to the enemy for the first time, and the landing operation is maneuvered in a way to avoid, as far as possible, presenting a concentrated target to enemy guns. Nevertheless, casualties in the first wave necessarily run "pretty high," a corps spokesman said.

While the men seize a toehold on the beach, new waves of landing boats arrive carrying light tanks and scout cars to force the enemy back. In addition to the fighting equipment, each Marine carries a two days' ration in case he should become separated from his fellows.

It has been said that amphibious warfare is a Japanese invention. The Japs, with a clear picture of their future areas of operation, began the development 15 years ago.

Like Football Game.

Major General Holland M. Smith, commander of the Marine base at Quantico and of the amphibious force, Atlantic fleet, compares an amphibious command to a football team. Troops are the backfield. The air force makes the end runs. The "line" is the Navy. All three must operate as one unit. To achieve this coordination is the prime objective of all the training.

The first American amphibious force was started many months ago. Its training and organization was entrusted to the Marine Corps because of its basic experience in somewhat similar types of organization and operation. But, General Smith stresses, it cannot be considered in any sense as an expanded Marine Corps. It is something new in the world. It is a well-high perfect co-ordination of soldiers, sailors and flyers who must be trained together to act as a unit. There is no question of just co-operating with one another.

The commander of an amphibious force must be both a soldier and a sailor to a degree far beyond that required of the Marine commander in the past. He must understand the tactics of both services.

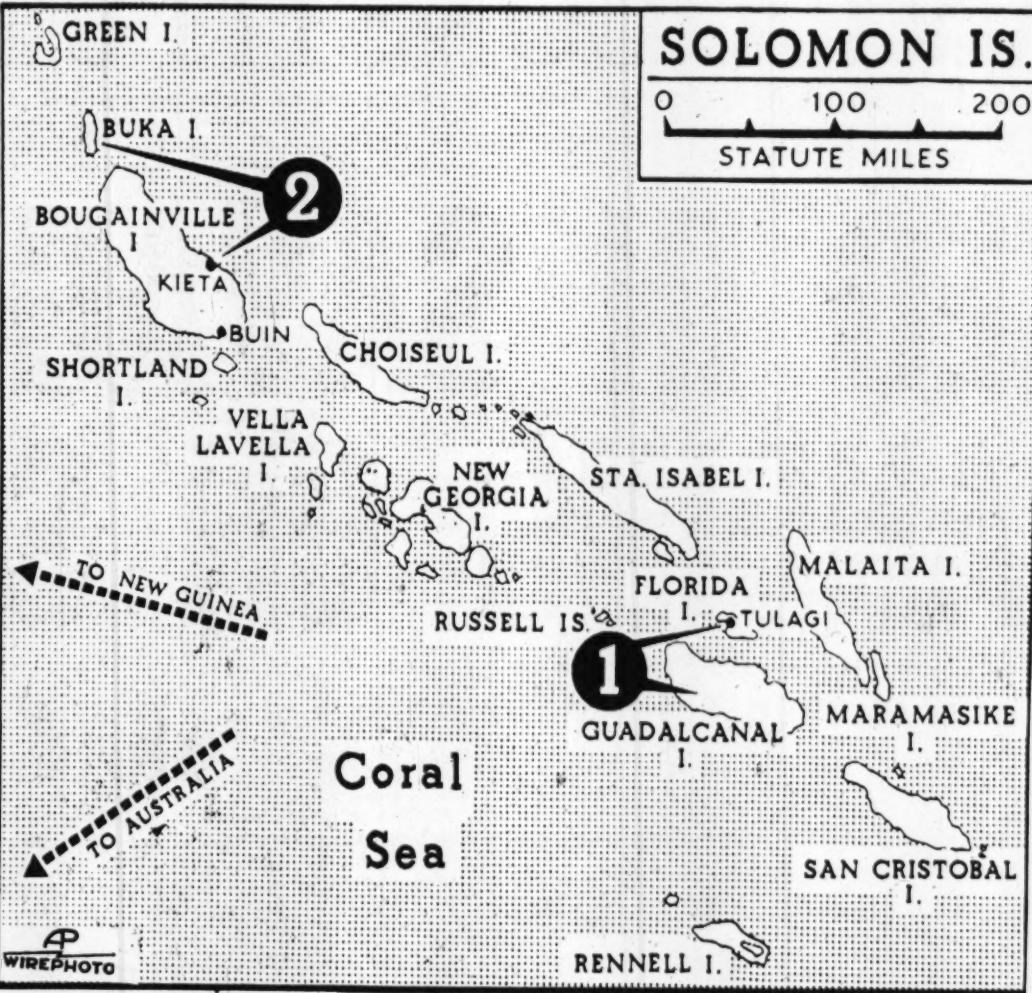

While the amphibious force must be the most closely coordinated of all fighting organizations it must maintain this co-ordination under the most difficult circumstances. This has involved, of necessity, the development of various communications refinements. No lights can be shown in the storm and darkness. It has been necessary to fall back on radio precisely constructed for various distances.

The so-called "walky-talky" plays a big part in amphibious operations. It also has been necessary to develop new types of boats adopted to scores of purposes which have arisen in this new kind of warfare.

War Is Described As Test of Church

RIDGECREST, N. C., Aug. 10.—(P)—Dr. J. B. McLaurin, once a missionary to the Orient and now executive secretary of the Baptist foreign mission board of Canada, told Southern Baptist pastors and missionaries today that the war was testing the church, both in its structure and in its inner life. He said the progress of Christianity could be viewed with optimism in mission lands, but that the same thing could not be said of Canada and the United States. Though driven underground, he declared the churches of Europe were "carrying on" regardless of their difficulties.

The Business Opportunity column in the Want Ads of The Constitution furnishes a fertile field for small investment and profitable effort.

WHERE "MARINES HAVE LANDED"—The situation still was in doubt yesterday but Allied forces, including United States Marines, had landed somewhere in the Solomon Islands (shown here) and were battling for beachheads to implement a campaign to recapture control of strategic bases. The offensive apparently was aimed principally at Guadalcanal Island and Tulagi (1). The Japs first landed at Kieta on January 25 and established another base at Buka (2). The Jap-held Solomons, northeast of Australia, threaten the United States supply line "down under."

Marines Land In Solomons, Battle Fiercely

planned, King reported, after "an initial surprise attack" had been effected, presumably by surface craft and airplanes. King did not specify the landing groups as Marines, but a naval spokesman did so. The spokesman was not at first clear as to whether troops other than Marines were also on hand, but later said the best information here was that Marines alone were doing the job.

Forces under the direct command of General Douglas MacArthur in Australia are co-operating with the Naval and Marine units, but those were presumed here to be land-based air forces.

As to damage dealt and suffered, Admiral King, said information was incomplete and that the report of six American ships blasted as well as the injury done to the enemy ships and planes was incomplete.

"Considerable Losses" Likely. He explained that "our operating forces are employing all available communications in the conduct of the operations."

"Considerable losses, such as are inherent in any offensive operation," King added, "must be expected as the price to be paid for the hard-won experience which is essential to the attainment of far-reaching results."

This is the first time that American troops have engaged in amphibious actions in this war, although it has long been said by naval officers that amphibious attack against Japan's network of island bases in the Pacific is one of the ways by which victory eventually must be achieved.

Yet amphibious warfare is regarded as the most difficult of all warfare, because of the necessity of split second co-ordination between land, sea and air forces.

Logical Starting Point.

It is a kind of warfare in which the Japanese, with their long experience in the China sea campaign, should now excel. There have been indications from the very first—when the Tulagi attack was announced tentatively by the Navy last Saturday—that the present operation might be the start of amphibious war for the United States.

The Solomons, it is apparent, would be a logical starting point since they lie like a frontier between the Allied base of Australia and its subsidiary islands on the one hand and, on the other, the Japanese-mandated islands and other holdings to the north.

Revenge for Wake Island.

King said that the enemy had been in process of consolidating their positions in the Solomons "in which their purpose has been not only to deny them to us but to use them as a base of offensive operations against our positions which cover the line of communications to Australia and New Zealand." Selection of Marines to drive them out offered a chance for the leathernecks to revenge Wake Island. Special Marine units have trained vigorously for many months to do just this sort of task, difficult as it is, and the selection appeared entirely logical aside from the sentimental purposes to be served.

Wake was captured from a small American Marine detachment in the first month of the war, but not until the Japs had lost seven ships, many planes and probably hundreds of men to the heroic resistance of the defending garrison.

Admiral Gormley is one of the Navy's better known officers and has been in his present job with headquarters in New Zealand since last spring.

World War Veteran.

Before that Gormley was special observer for the Navy in London, a position to which he was assigned after completing a tour of duty as director of the vital war plans office of the office of chief of naval operations here. A regular naval officer who graduated from Annapolis in 1906, Gormley had active service at sea during the World War, his principal duty being flag lieutenant of commander of Battleship Force One.

Admiral King's statement gave no further news on the Aleutians situation. The Navy reported Saturday that American forces had attacked the enemy at Kiska, in the Aleutians. Unlike the Solomon Islands operation, this was believed to be a sort, sharp raid.

In a speech in the house today, Delegate Dimond, of Alaska, called on the United States to set up a "first front" in the Aleutian area and eject the Japanese before setting up a "second front" elsewhere.

Dimond warned that possession of the Alaskan territory gives the Japanese access to the North American continent.

British Desert Hero

Said Killed in Action

LONDON, Aug. 10.—(P)—The Daily Telegraph said today it had learned that Lieutenant General William Henry Ewart Gott, 45, one of Britain's outstanding desert soldiers, was killed in action in the recent Libyan fighting. Known affectionately to his troops as "Strafer," Gott was praised in the house of commons by Prime Minister Churchill last June in recognition of his valor in combating Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's advance, and the war office once said, "He probably knows more about the desert than any other senior British officer."

Of desert fighting, Gott once remarked, "To him who knows it the desert can be a fortress; to him who does not it can be a death trap."

U. S. Carriers Believed Risked In Solomons Attack

By EDWARD E. ROMAR, Wide World Staff Analyst. Admiral King's warning reminder that victory and war experience must be paid for with "considerable losses" deserves as much stress as his gratifying report that an initial landing has been accomplished in the Solomons.

Even before the naval commander-in-chief gave the first definite tidings from the scene, officers familiar with the hazards involved were grim as they awaited an intimation of the price of a triumph in blood and warships.

One or more vulnerable American aircraft carriers probably were risked inasmuch as fighter planes were essential and these could be transported to the scene only by this means from the nearest Allied-held territory.

Assuming accepted military principles were followed, the attack was carried out by a force at least three times as strong as it was believed the defenders would be.

Such a margin must be enjoyed for a fair chance of success, it has been said by Major General Holland M. Smith, of the Marines, commander of the amphibious force of the Atlantic fleet. Another dictum is that a small amphibian operation is likely to be worse than the usual one.

The offensive was undertaken, therefore, with full realization that without the most extreme good fortune substantial losses would have to be reckoned with, in accord with recognized principles of "calculated risk." After Pearl Harbor and Bataan there will be no quibbling over the price of victory.

'Cease Firing' Halts 'Combat' In Louisiana

Night Marching, Fighting Mark Second Phase of Maneuvers.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY, Somewhere in La., Aug. 10.—(P)—"Cease firing" sounded today as the embattled Red and Blue forces of Lieutenant General Walter Krueger's Third Army were poised for a decisive showdown in the second of a schedule of 10 strenuous combat problems.

Hard night marching and fighting featured the operations of both sides before hostilities were halted. Red cavalry, making a forced march of nearly 30 miles under the cover of darkness, successfully blocked a serious Blue flanking thrust. Equally aggressive, the Blues sent a fast moving combat team across country through the night to seize a key Red position at the break of dawn.

At the halt of operations, on the order of General Krueger, the Reds, commanded by Major General John C. Persons, were under powerful attack from both flanks. However, while in precarious position, Persons had several aces up his sleeve.

45-Day Fast Said Ended by Pleas of Mother.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 10.—(P)—Corbett Bishop, 36, the hunger-striking conscientious objector, was a patient today at St. Agnes hospital, his fast at an end.

Apparently influenced by pleas of his mother, who had been visiting him for several days, Bishop agreed to take food last night, ending a 45-day period during which he was known to have had no nourishment other than water. Bishop was removed to the hospital, physicians said, not because he was in a serious condition but because the resumption of eating after a long period of fast is a delicate business.

Restrictions On Bicycles Are Tightened

Buyers Will Be Required To Show Proof of Need.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(AP)—The Office of Price Administration today trimmed the list of persons eligible to buy bicycles under rationing, leaving it only slightly broader than the automobile and tire rationing lists.

The revision, effective August 15, was necessitated by the War Production Board's recent order halting bicycle production at the end of August. The original eligibility provisions had been drafted in expectation of a continuing supply.

Even persons rated as eligible on the new list will not get bicycles for use instead of automobiles, however, if they have adequate tires and, in the east, a gasoline ration, to perform the same services. OPA intended this restriction to prevent the buying of new bikes to save tires and gasoline for non-essential driving.

A list of occupations eligible for bicycles was announced, to replace the original broad phraseology which made any person eligible who was "engaged in a gainful occupation" or in work essential to the war effort or public welfare.

To obtain a purchase certificate, the listed person must show "proof of need" as was previously required.

Holland Attacks Editorials of Three Papers

Says They Are Guilty of 'Moral Sabotage.'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Publishers of three metropolitan daily newspapers were accused by Representative Holland, Democrat, Pennsylvania, in the house today of having committed "moral sabotage" through their editorial columns.

Holland identified them as Joseph Medill Patterson, of the New York Daily News; Eleanor Patterson, of the Washington Times-Herald; and Robert McCormick, of the Chicago Tribune, and said their publications "are in spirit and in conduct members of the German press."

"Separate their editorials from the trappings of a large city newspaper, publish them as a separate book, and read them as a continuous theme," Holland told the house. "You will see their net effect is to preach defeatism among our soldiers and mutiny among our allies, and to create joy in the hearts of our enemies."

It was the second time Holland had criticized on the house floor the New York Daily News and the Times-Herald. Last week the Daily News and the Times-Herald replied to his previous speech editorially by calling Holland a "liar."

'Smear Campaign' On Press Charged

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Senator Brooks, Republican, Illinois, told the senate today that there was a well-organized, well-financed "purge and smear campaign" under way, directed at himself and other members of congress and at newspapers which supported his candidacy for reelection.

"To dogmatically smear, destroy or dominate the congress," Brooks said, "to intimidate and arbitrarily control the press, to set up a government of fear through investigations and intimidation is not a part of the American way for which we fight, and will die."

Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, objected to use of "smear" in describing opposite views.

"I don't like the word smear. I don't like to hear it because it is an insidious word. I do not think it is fair to use it whenever anybody opposes our views," he said.

Brooks referred at one point to a grand jury investigation in Chicago of a story printed by the Chicago Tribune on the size of the Japanese Naval forces at Midway. He said that it was one of several stories by Stanley Johnston "which provided new insight into the tactics and problems of modern warfare at sea, and in the sky."

Senator Taft, Republican, Ohio, said the attorney general should exercise his powers and discretion to decide in advance whether acts were, in fact, violations of the spirit of the laws, before asking a grand jury for an indictment.

Taft said he thought Senator Brooks was justified in his protest.

"If this indictment (of the Chicago Tribune) is made," Taft said, "no editor in the United States will be able to print anything but the official communiques, word for word."

Barkley replied that Taft's suggestion of greater discretion on the part of the attorney general "would be an attack on the grand jury system."

Cattle Rustling Case Is Cleared Up at Vidalia

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
VIDALIA, Ga., Aug. 10.—A case of cattle rustling was cleaned up here last week when Sheriff Dewey Wright, of Appling county, and Mrs. Pressada Sellers, of near Baxley, appeared in Vidalia and positively identified six head of cattle as being the property of Mrs. Sellers, the cattle having been sold on Wednesday's sale as the property of other parties.

Sheriff Wright, after looking over the sale ticket, went to Soperton, where he arrested a man who he stated had sold the cattle. Another warrant, Sheriff Wright said, was issued for another man in connection with the same case. Wright said that the rustling case was a routine matter, of his office, Appling county being one of the big livestock counties of the state, and rustling activities having lately flared up in his section.

Foul Play Suspected in John S. Sexton's Death

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
GAINESVILLE, Ga., Aug. 10.—Following the issuance of an affidavit by Wiley Sexton and J. D. Sexton, in which it was stated that they suspected foul play in the death of their brother, John S. Sexton, an autopsy was performed upon the body, according to Coroner J. B. Vickers.

A coroner's jury was empaneled by the coroner and, after a session of an hour and a half, recessed pending the outcome of the autopsy, the officer said. The autopsy was performed by Dr. J. A. Ayers, of Atlanta, Vickers said, and it was also stated by Vickers that the findings would probably not be complete for several days.

Mr. Sexton, who was a well-known Gainesville automobile mechanic, died Wednesday at a local hospital after a brief illness. He was a native and lifelong resident of Hall county, and had for some time been connected with the shops of the United States Forestry Department here. Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at the Central Baptist church here.

Bread Rationed Belgians Made of Sawdust, Potato Peel

(This is the third and last in a series of inside stories about Belgium under the Suastika by a well-known leader of the Belgian "underground" movement who arrived in America recently after a sensational escape from Belgium, one step ahead of the Gestapo. Because some of his closest relatives are still in Belgium his real identity must be cloaked under a pseudonym Jan Beulemans. Both his material and background are vouched for and authenticated by officials in the United States of the Belgian government in exile.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(INS)—Belgium, long famous for its bountiful fruits, potatoes, tomatoes, asparagus, chicory and other crops, is being forced to live on near-starvation rations under the Nazi policy of shipping everything possible to Germany.

German Radio Comments On Executions

Nazi Spokesman 'Justifies' Reich Acts by Death of Saboteurs.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(AP)—

The German radio, in its first comment on the execution of six Nazi saboteurs in Washington Saturday, said today the executions were "a serious event whose consequences enemy countries could not ignore." This quotation was attributed to a German foreign office spokesman.

By its action, the radio said, the United States "forfeited the right of protesting against the condemnation of saboteurs in the territory occupied by the German army."

"Henceforth," the German radio said, "no one on the side of the enemies of the Axis would in the least be entitled to criticize such German measures in the hinterland of the German front, particularly as such measures would be also in the interests of the populations of the regions in question."

CONSTITUTION WANT ADS

The Nazis have installed a system whereby they compel farms to sell them most of their produce before it can be sent to the marketplaces.

Deprived of the barest essentials for healthy sustenance, Belgium has experienced an increase in its death rate from 1.2 per cent in 1939, to 1.72 per cent in 1941—and it will be even worse this year. The birth rate has dropped from 1.65 per cent in 1939 to .9 in 1941.

Bread Made of Sawdust.

The half-pound of bread per person per day allowed under the Nazi rationing regulations is vile stuff made partly with sawdust and partly with potato peels. Many poor people subsist almost entirely now on chestnuts and potato peels.

While a small morsel of meat per week is allowed on the ration cards this is seldom obtainable, and the same goes for butter and potatoes.

The only milk available is watery skimmed milk and this is allotted only to children under seven and aged people over 70. Since March, the half-pint daily allowance for children has been further reduced because even the skimmed milk is becoming scarcer and scarcer.

Although the subsistence minimum for an adult is estimated at 1,800 calories of food per day, the Belgian average has already fallen below 1,000. During the last war, the relief commission in Belgium managed to provide an average of 2,800 calories per adult per day.

Hospital Overflowing.

Tuberculosis, acute stomach disorders, and skin ailments are all on the increase in Belgium today and the hospitals are crowded to overflowing.

Despite the hardships to which Belgian children are subjected, their spirit is something to marvel at.

The Germans in their program for "Nazifying" Belgium have tried to stamp out all vestiges of Belgian patriotism in the schools. Rigid instructions are issued to school teachers who are threatened with imprisonment in concentration camps if they disobey.

The University of Brussels itself has been closed down and most of its professors jailed because they refused to abide by the Nazi educational dictatorship.

History Books Censored.

In the secondary and grade schools, history books have been "censored" by the Nazi authorities and all references, for example, to Belgium's role in the last war have been ordered out of the textbooks.

Many of the children, however, have taken these textbooks home and with the aid of their parents have pasted back in their books a summary of the portions cut out by the Nazis and at every opportunity they recite from these sections.

The Germans are trying not only to stamp out Belgian traditions and culture but even the language of the people.

For example, at the railroad stations and along the main thoroughfares, signs and announcements have been changed from Flemish and French to German. At almost every main intersection now there is a special sign announcing that a German police station is located at such and such an address nearby—just as a warning to the populace.

Nazi Third Degree.

Every effort is made to regiment the Belgians along Nazi lines.

If you are caught disobeying the regulations, you are hauled in and given a Nazi third degree. Glaring spotlights are focused on your eyes and three Gestapo agents fire questions at you while a fourth kicks in the shins if you hesitate to answer.

I was taken a prisoner of war by the Germans in 1939 but after the surrender of Belgium, I and a number of other prisoners were liberated and sent back to Brussels.

Upon my return, I helped to organize the "underground" organizations that now honeycomb our

Tax Collections Up $388,799 Over Last July

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Georgia's tax collections for July totaled almost $400,000 more than a year ago instead of dropping 20 per cent as estimated, State Auditor B. E. Thrasher Jr. said yesterday.

Receipts for the month totaled $3,675,785 compared to the $2,529,517 which had been anticipated in making up departmental budgets, he said. The amount anticipated was based on a 20 per cent decrease from the $3,286,986 collected in July, 1941.

Income and fuel oil taxes accounted for the increase, Thrasher explained. He still expects a 20 per cent drop in collections for the present fiscal year because of the new gasoline rationing system and steeper federal income taxes.

Because of the unforeseen July gain, he added, the state's cash surplus has climbed from $9,663,535 at the close of the fiscal year on June 30 to $10,316,630.

Northeast of Kotelnikowski the battle for Stalingrad has taken on a "very tense character," the communists added. One railway station in this area changed hands several times, and in the evening it was in Russian possession.

As the Russians withdrew, explosions resounded over vast areas and clouds of smoke hung over the countryside, indicating the Red army had ruthlessly applied the torch to problem installations.

A dispatch to Pravda told of the apparent application of the scorched earth policy. Other fires consumed fields of ripened grain which peasants were unable to harvest because of the swift German drive with tanks and dive bombers.

WPB Favors Plan To Design 200-Ton Plane

Kaiser Told To Go Ahead With Plans for Flying Boat.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(AP) Chairman Donald M. Nelson, of the War Production Board, tonight gave Henry J. Kaiser a letter authorizing the Pacific coast shipbuilder to submit a report showing engineering plans, facilities and materials to be used in building 500 "Mars"-type cargo planes.

If Kaiser's report shows that construction of the 70-ton flying boats would not interfere with the Navy's plane program, Nelson said, it is "expected that a contract for the construction of the planes will be negotiated."

The letter was not a "letter of intent," which is a valid government commitment for the start of production. Friday Nelson said a letter of intent was being prepared by the Navy as the agency for which the planes actually would be built, although this was the original program.

Official sources, although declining to be quoted by name, indicated that the Navy had balked at the plan despite Nelson's approval. The Navy's objections, a WPB spokesman indicated, were based on doubt of the California builder's ability to build the huge cargo planes in shipyards, as he proposes.

Second Letter.

A second letter was issued to Kaiser, Nelson announced, authorizing the Californian to proceed with the design of a new type 200-ton flying boat. To work on this problem with Kaiser, WPB will appoint a committee of experts from the aircraft industry.

The letter asks Kaiser to submit a detailed proposal for the production of the 200-ton planes in a shipyard, together with estimates of materials needed, probable costs and other production data.

"When submitted, this proposal will be considered by the WPB and the Navy Department," the announcement said.

WPB did not release the text of either letter to Kaiser.

Immediate Pay To Servicemen Dependents Hit

Vast Administrative Duties Necessary First, Patterson Asserts.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(AP) Representative Cochran, Democrat, made public today a letter from the War Department opposing pending legislation under which payments to servicemen's dependents under the allowance and allotment act would be made immediately upon the death of the serviceman.

Signed by Undersecretary Robert P. Patterson, the letter estimated that upwards of one million checks would be sent out monthly under the act and pointed out that a vast administrative force must be trained and employed, and equipment obtained before payment could be made.

Nevertheless, Representative Rankin, Democrat, Mississippi, said he planned to insist that the house give immediate consideration to the legislation.

"My bill merely makes it possible for the departments to start releasing the funds now in needy cases," Rankin said.

Cochran pointed out the possible bad effect on morale.

"You can easily see," he said, "what the effect might be if the wife of a man serving in the United States received her check in August and her next-door neighbor, whose husband was serving in Australia, could not get hers until November."

TALCUM

50¢ and $1.00 sizes

From Rabun, Stephens, White and Hall counties crowds had come to join the anti-Talmadge forces in Habersham county.

The "standing room only sign" had been tossed aside and the "no more room" sign was up in its place.

The crowd demanded that the meeting be held in the city park in the center of the city, where all could hear. The loud speakers were strung up quickly in the square and Arnall's impromptu platform was the rear end of a Clarksville tire department truck, which had been backed into the square.

Former Talmadge Leader.

As in virtually all other Georgia cities where Arnall has been speaking, an old Talmadge leader he introduced him to the home folks of these north Georgia counties, and this time it was Frank Garrison, who just two years ago was one of Habersham's leaders in the campaign to elect Talmadge to the job from which the people of Georgia are determined to see him ousted. Garrison, a fruit grower, is known as "Old Orchard" in this area.

In the crowd that swarmed over the city park was a delegation of students from Piedmont College, at near-by Demorest, where Madame Chiang Kai-shek, the wife of China's democratic generalissimo, was given her preparatory training before she entered Wesleyan College at Macon.

The boys and girls from Piedmont College swarmed around the truck where Arnall was speaking, cheering him and waving aloft signs.

"Piedmont wants Arnall."

"Arnall, not a man."

Red Suspenders.

"We don't like red suspenders."

"We fight the Japs for freedom."

"Now we must fight Talmadge for reform."

As the crowds from the courthouse were sweeping across the main street into City Park, a long, sleek automobile pulled up at a curb and a woman and two men peered out from under the stream-lined roof, in astonished curiosity.

The man at the wheel was L. W. "Chip" Ruffing, the famous Evinrude salesman.

The other man was their guest on the motor trip into Atlanta from the north.

Robert Talmadge's ball carrier in the Board of Regents, asked:

"What's going on?"

A townsman told him: "Ellis Arnall is about to speak."

Robert viewed the crowd in amazement. "Does Ellis always draw crowds like this?"

"Shucks," he was told, "this is just a small impromptu gathering. Why don't you stay and hear the speaking?" Ellis mentions you once or twice as he goes along.

"Nope," said Robert, "I've got to get to Atlanta—Mrs. Robert has to catch a train."

He slipped in the clutch and the long car slid away from the curb —with the Robert party still looking back in amazement.

From the stern of the automobile truck, Frank Garrison was cheered as he reminded the crowd that Habersham county had been Democratic ever since its birth.

"We have a sturdy stock up here," he said. "Our people have not lost faith in one another. We lend one another land, horses, cows, plows and—we even sign notes for one another. We get along well because we keep our promises. We don't approve of people who don't fulfill their promises or whose word is not good."

Many persons in the crowd, said Garrison, had supported Talmadge in previous elections.

"I can recognize many of them personally," said he man who was once the wedge of the Talmadge forces in this area.

"We people, however, cannot concur in this man's attacks on the institutions that mean everything to us."

"We cannot concur in his treatment of his old friends."

This campaign, said Garrison, has pitted against each other "two distinct types of manhood."

"We know which of the two types we shall select," he said.

"Habersham," said Garrison, "wants to see co-operation restored among the department heads of our state government. Georgians," this farmer warned, "have grown too careless with their ballot."

"We don't take time to study the character of our candidates," he pointed out. "You and I are responsible for the men we elect. Today, we want a man who will make the democratic plan possible."

The crowd roared its approval

WIN THEIR WINGS—In recognition of their outstanding work as volunteers at the filter center, 200 women yesterday received their wings from the First Fighter Command. The group, half of the total number of women who perform a highly secret task under the direction of the Army (the other half received their wings last week), has been trained by the Army Signal Corps. The women, placed by the Office of Civilian Defense at the center, work two hours each day, every other week. Receiving their wings from Lieutenant Henry Lundgren are (left to right) Mrs. James C. of Garrison's introductory remarks and Arnall was given a great ovation as he picked up his microphone.

To the north Georgians today, Arnall reiterated his pledges to restore the government to the citizens of the state.

At Clarksville and at Chatsworth, in northwest Georgia, where he spoke in the morning, the crowds approved his No. 1 plank—the restoration of the schools and colleges and universities of Georgia to a standing which will make them the equal of those in any state of the nation.

Chatsworth Meeting.

This morning had been held in the Murray county courthouse and the crowd there, far up near the Tennessee line, jammed the courtroom and overflowed into the vast lawn outside where extra loud-speakers were hung outside the courtroom windows.

The north Georgians openly expressed their approval of the honest determination in which Arnall voiced his pledge to redeem and restore the reputation of the state.

Arnall reiterated his pledges to clean up the pardon and parole racket; to get the various state boards out from under the control of the Governor by removing him as a member; to clean out the state police system and restore it to its former efficiency; to increase the pay of the school teachers; to rid the Governor's anteroom of teagars tossers and bundsmen; to stop the bartering and trading with the rights of people that goes on in hotel rooms at night.

"I promise you," said Arnall, "I'll be at my job at the state capital all day and I'll be home with my family at night."

In Chatsworth, W. B. Robinson, a Murray county attorney, who introduced Arnall, said:

"If the state of Georgia ever had a mess that needs cleaning up, it has it now."

Patrol Resented.

North Georgians resent bitterly today the operations of the State Highway Patrol in this area.

"At one time," said Robinson, "it was one of our best organizations. Today it, too, is being rotted to the core by politics. We ought to get that organization back to an efficient level."

The State Patrol is now under the control of Johnny Goodwin, Georgia commissioner of public safety, who today is Talmadge's chief bodyguard.

be the equivalent of 18 months' normal consumption. American naval experts long have believed the Japanese always have maintained a stock sufficient for two years.

At Hongkong the Japanese probably found between 15,000 and 20,000 tons of Diesel and fuel oil destroyed. But in the Philippines the Pandan storage areas were understood to have been completely destroyed.

Japan's main problem will be transportation. Americans believe that within three to six months that with a few oil fields in Burma, Java, Sumatra and Borneo will be operating again, but there are no refineries left in those areas. Hence tankers must take the crude oil to Japan. The lone refinery in the southern Orient is at Bangkok. It is too small to handle more than a trickle of the high test gasoline Japan needs.

Japan also is equipped to produce oil and gasoline synthetically from coal. Experts said the annual production exceeded 1,000,000 barrels.

The reparations passed here for a 48-hour stay after completing the second leg of a strange odyssey.

Navy Officer's Fate Will Be Told by Knox

Six-Man Court-Martial Adjourns Hearing for Aroff.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Making no announcement as to guilt or innocence, a six-man naval court-martial late today adjourned its hearing into seven charges of misconduct and falsehood against Lieutenant Commander Maurice N. Aroff, including one that he accepted an automobile from Singer Tony Martin.

The verdict will be announced in Washington by Secretary of Navy Knox.

After deliberating for an hour and a half, and once coming back in to give the defense a chance to "submit any matter in extenuation or mitigation," the court adjourned for the night.

When the judges returned to the courtroom, Aroff took the stand and expressed regret "for any embarrassment I have caused the United States Navy or anyone associated with it."

He gave the court a $675 check as "the balance in full on the Studebaker" which he was accused of accepting from Tony Martin for facilitating the singer's enlistment in the Navy.

The commander made no excuse for any of the acts of which he was accused but said he had spent six years preparing himself as a naval officer, and "my service as executive and engineer can be utilized today by the United States Navy and I know if given an opportunity to do so I will acquit myself well to make this court and the United States Navy proud of me."

The Lesser Evil

The British authorities in India have undoubtedly chosen the lesser evil by the arrest of Mohandas Gandhi and some of his followers. Despite rioting which has broken out in Bombay and some other Indian cities there is hope that this phase will pass and that the minority group which adheres to the Gandhi standard will realize the suicidal fatuity of its position.

Adherents of the mislabeled "All-India Congress" are, as a matter of fact, but a small minority of the population of India. It is certain, should the Gandhi program succeed, the only result would be to divide India into a myriad of racial and factional segments, each fighting others on religious, racial or political grounds.

Instead of an India reasonably united under British rule, potentially a fairly strong military barrier to Axis ambitions, there would be an India so torn by internal dissension that there could be no resistance to any Japanese invaders.

Gandhi has displayed an utter inability to understand the world crisis. He has held to his own political program even though by so doing he would scuttle the hopes of victory for the forces fighting for world freedom. His attitude at such a time as this has been little short of imbecile. Britain has granted to India every possible concession at this time. To grant more would be betrayal of all the United Nations.

It is to be hoped the British, in their desire to give India every freedom possible, have not delayed too long the firm action which is now inevitable. Not only for the sake of the United Nations, but for the sake of India herself, Britain must stand firm against the Gandhi program. If she does not, India will fall like an overripe plum to the Japanese. Then the same groups that today riot in Bombay will wish, from their despair, they were once again under British rule.

The Light Plane Serves

Admission in Washington that the bottleneck in airplane engines will prevent any immediate great cargo plane production program focuses attention on the role of the light plane in this war.

The lowly hedge-hopper will come into its own as the need for air service expands. They are being little utilized today, yet they have a potential service to the country that cannot be measured in terms of their past uses. Heretofore used chiefly as pleasure craft, or for training purposes, the light plane today is finding a variety of uses that increases from day to day. They are being used for the ferrying of personnel and vital parts to and from factories; the ferrying of Army and Navy officers on important missions, especially to small towns where regular airliner service has not been available; they are being developed as Army liaison and observation planes; they are being used to spot and aid in fighting forest fires; they are being used to patrol highways and other vital routes; they are being used as air ambulances and they are being used for the development of experienced ferry pilots for larger-engine craft.

The light plane enthusiasts soon will have their inning.

American Cheese

Cheese prices have come down because production has caught up, and passed, production. Sally Saver, The Constitution's food expert, can tell you how to use cheese in many new and familiar dishes. American cheese makers are producing cheeses of all varieties as good as the imported European cheeses of pre-war days.

Cheese is an excellent substitute for meat when, and if, there are meat shortages. It can be used in literally dozens of dishes. There is no more healthful food and it now becomes a sort of duty to eat it and help out with the food situation.

We are happy to urge cheese on your market lists and also that you call Sally Saver, care The Constitution, and ask about a good cheese dish.

Trees Depleted

A warning in the public's interest was voiced recently when Earle H. Clapp, acting chief of the United States Forest Service, deplored the unnecessary destructive cutting of forests now going on under the cloak of war emergency.

One need not be a technical forester to appreciate the evidence of the present heavy drain being placed on our already depleted forests. Nor is it difficult for the average citizen to realize the folly of slashing and depleting our woodlands by removing every tree of a size large enough to make a 2 by 4. Trees which have not as yet reached midmorning of a prospective life of many benefits. Trees, which if spared the careless ax would increase their volume of timber many fold during the coming years and reseed the barren hillsides with young growth for future generations. Small trees which involve a waste of labor, gas, rubber and equipment to cut, haul and manufacture during these critical times.

The folly of this method of cutting in past years is shown by the fact that, today, survey crews are out in search of new areas to provide hardwoods for airplane veneers, specialty timbers for ship and dock construction, and other high-grade forest products, of which a scarcity now exists.

Winning the war is the biggest job facing the nation today. No one questions the urgency of using our every resource to its fullest capacity. Freezing orders and other restrictions placed on products of our forests already rate this material as critical. This makes it all the more imperative that care be taken to cut only those trees which have reached a size and volume to justify their removal, leaving the young fast-growing trees for future use.

Following this practice, our forests can supply our present war needs and still retain a growing stock for post-war needs. In that after-war period, years will be required to rebuild a war-torn world, America's forests will be called upon to supply large quantities of building material, and American workers will find employment in harvesting and manufacturing these products.

Years have been spent in educational efforts to keep our forests productive and much good has resulted, but the problem is far from solved. Many operators have employed foresters to advise and assist them in harvesting on a selective cutting system on their own lands, yet numerous cases have occurred where operators left a stand of timber in good shape on small holdings, only to be followed by other operators, whose waving greenbacks were too much for the farmer, so the remaining trees were cut, leaving bare, unproductive areas.

Considering all these factors, Mr. Clapp recommends two steps to protect the public's interest in our forests; first, public ownership and management of more forest lands by communities, states and the federal government, and second, nation-wide public regulation of cutting practices sufficient to keep our forests reasonably productive. The public has much at stake in our forests. It is a stake which should not be neglected.

Georgia Editors Say:

POLITICS WARMING UP!

(From The Calhoun Times.)

Isn't the political situation beginning to generate a little heat? I ask for information. I am a busy man and don't get out much; I didn't get to Moultrie nor Newnan, Cedartown nor Statesboro. But I do get Gene's paper, The Statesman, and the Atlanta Journal and The Constitution, and some 30 or 60 Georgia weekly papers, and it seems to me that things are warming up a little. For instance, it seems that Gene is sweating and snapping his red galuses and damning the newspapers just like Hitler did when he was rising to power in Germany. Dictators hate newspapers. The only newspapers they will tolerate are those they control. Gene talks about the "bought" press. First it was the Atlanta dailies, but now he is making his charges so general that his followers are led to believe all papers—big and little—have sold out to the devil. Of course there's one exception—one pure and undefiled: The Statesman! That calls for some comparisons: The Atlanta dailies publish news about all candidates and what they say, but not The Statesman! The Atlanta newspapers print letters both praising and denouncing them and their policies. Does The Statesman? Let's see you try to get the smallest item in it favorable to Ellis Arnall; try to get a letter criticizing Gene in its columns and see how far you will get! Try to get a news announcement of one of Ellis Arnall's speaking engagements in it! But Gene claims it is a newspaper, and it has been given mailing privileges as a newspaper, so it must be a newspaper. Then why shouldn't it be governed by the same rules that apply to other newspapers—the rules of impartial treatment of all news, about the other side as well as your side? Compare the policies of the Atlanta newspapers with those of Governor Talmadge's newspaper and see if you don't think Editor Talmadge should be the last one to raise a complaint about unfairness!

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

TRIBUNE PROBE WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Because of the strict censorship imposed, the public may get a wrong impression of the grand jury investigation ordered by the Department of Justice of the Chicago Tribune for publishing certain confidential information relating to the battle of Midway.

The Tribune, chief isolationist organ of the pre-Pearl Harbor period, is making pious charges of political persecution. It charges that the investigation is a part of a political plot against newspapers which have demanded "the removal of high officials (in Washington) who have been fanning the ball at home."

The facts belie such a charge. As a matter of record, the investigation was initiated at the insistence of Secretary of the Navy Knox, one of the two Republican members of the Roosevelt cabinet. When demands for action against the publication were passed on to the Department of Justice, Attorney General Biddle, leaning over backward in an effort to avoid any charge of political persecution, brought in a former Republican attorney general—William D. Mitchell—and placed him in charge of the case.

It is upon Mr. Mitchell's findings and under his direction that the case is now being presented to a federal grand jury in Chicago. Thus the source of the investigation has rested in Republican hands from the beginning. The Tribune's grounds for complaint are baseless on this score.

RIGID CENSORSHIP Unfortunately, the full scope of the charges to be presented to the grand jury cannot be disclosed. Both the Navy Department and the Department of Justice have clamped down a rigid censorship on the details. Not unless indictments are returned will the veil of secrecy be lifted.

It can only be said that the investigation concerns not only the subject matter of information published by the paper in relation to the Midway sea battle, but also the source of the information. The implication is that the Tribune violated the voluntary censorship code in publishing something that should not have been published and got the information from a source that was forbidden.

The offending article was written by Stanley Johnston, Tribune correspondent who witnessed the Coral Sea battle on board the ill-fated Lexington. In it he told how the Navy had advanced information on the plans and composition of the Japanese fleet which struck at Midway. He even listed the names of the Japanese vessels taking part in the engagement.

What the story revealed was that the United States Navy, through its intelligence service, had sources of information which enabled it to keep minutely informed of Japanese fleet movements—a vitally important secret of the first magnitude in times of war.

Any Japanese espionage agent, reading between the lines, would have been able to gather from the story that one of two things had happened—either equally disastrous to them. First, that we had broken the Japanese naval code, enabling us to decipher all of their confidential messages sent by sea; second, that we had a spy planted somewhere in the Japanese naval establishment.

To tip the Japs off to this important information would be to throw away a trump card of the highest value. That is precisely what the Tribune did in printing the story. High naval officers have said privately that publication of the story set our naval intelligence back at least six months. There is need, at this time, that the next time the Japs undertake a raid such as the one directed at Midway Island we will have advance information.

That advance information revealed by the Tribune made it possible for us to concentrate our forces at the right spot and wreak havoc on the invading Japs. Except for the brief skirmishes reported from the Aleutian Islands, none of our navy's victory over the Jap navy since the Midway battle. We practically destroyed their carrier strength in that fight.

The Tribune in its piteous explanation that the story was written in the paper's offices in Chicago after a consultation between Johnston and the managing editor. That is worse than it would have been if it had come in by wire, for its way into print without anything more than hasty consideration as to censorship limitations. Both Johnston and the managing editor should have realized its serious implications. It is a slipshod type of journalism that the Tribune has been too guilty of in the past.

ROBERT WOOD

NOT FROM ATHENS

Editor, Constitution: Your correspondent in reporting the events of the Talmadge meeting at Statesboro referred to a certain Robert F. Wood from Athens. I am very glad that he put it as it is—Mr. Wood is from Athens, not of Athens.

The records in the office of the city marshal (the official title of tax collector and registrar) do not show the name of Robert F. Wood at all, hence he cannot be truly called an Athenian. Now at the county courthouse we find that Robert F. Wood transferred from Ware county and soon thereafter announced for governor, at the time making his home in a trailer out at Bray's Camp on the Dan-Ipsville road (Mr. Bray at the time was an outstanding supporter of Governor Talmadge).

Mr. Wood transferred from Ware county and soon thereafter announced for governor, at the time making his home in a trailer out at Bray's Camp on the Dan-Ipsville road (Mr. Bray at the time was an outstanding supporter of Governor Talmadge).

From that time until now this man Wood shows up as a very prominent figure as an advance agent, investigator, showman de luxe for the Governor, and it is often said that a man is known by the company he keeps. The Governor evidently likes him for he keeps him around. There is also another very familiar expression, "Birds of a feather, flock together."

No, we Athenians do not claim Mr. Wood to be one of our citizens and the records do not show him to be.

DISAGREES WITH WESTBROOK PEGLER
Editor, Constitution: Just a few random thoughts inspired by reading Westbrook Pegler's article in The Constitution August 6, referring to the race for Governor in New York.

He states that while certain of the candidates may have been appeasers and isolationists prior to Pearl Harbor, this evidence of lack of vision and foresight, even even ignorance of the trend of world events, should not now be held against them when they aspire to the role of leaders of the people, and incidentally moulders of public opinion, in this time of dire peril to our nation and all democratic peoples.

How illogical and dangerous this idea is. Why should such men expect to be made leaders and placed on watch to warn of approaching danger, when they have so recently and miserably failed to see the onrushing holocaust?

I fully understand that we can't proscribe appeasers and pacifists too drastically just now, else, we might as well have criticized our own good friends in high places who, a few years ago, lined up with Franco and Hitler and Mussolini against Spain in her fight for liberty.

Probably some of us failed to see even two or three years ago, that we would soon depend almost entirely upon Godless Russia and the "Heathen Chinese" for our very existence as a free nation.

Yes, if we had helped Spain in her fight for freedom, we would be lining up with Hitler and Franco,

How Can We Help NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—The report of the Office of War Information was a good presentation of bad news but it didn't go far enough. Having said that this nation is only ankle deep in war it leaves the people wondering what they can do and in just what way they have failed.

For example, the report says "Production of small vessels for the anti-submarine campaign is still lagging and, in June, was less than half of schedule."

Assuming that the people are eager to remedy this, how can the individual go about it? Where can he find a place to put his shoulder to the job and shove?

Again, it says production "measured against what we need to win, is not yet enough. In June, we fell slightly below schedule in total military planes, in total combat planes and in most of the individual types; we made more planes than any other country in the world but we did not make as many as we said we were going to make. The same is true of tanks, of most types of artillery and naval vessels—particularly the small craft needed to fight submarines."

Not for any purpose of blame-placing but so that the people may know what they might have done but failed to do, it should be explained why this lag occurred. The report says next that the construction of war plants has run ahead of the supply of raw materials to keep them going at full capacity. What raw materials? What can George Speilvin, American, do without and where can he pitch in and help produce some of the material? He is willing enough for he realizes, although sometimes only in a vague, distant way, that defeat in this war means the death of the United States of America, the obliteration of the Stars and Stripes and the Germanization of a once free people except on the west coast, where Japanese would take over.

There are literally millions of Americans who are doing nothing at all beyond the little neighborhood activities of civilian defense and the like. Among them are many whose sons are in uniform at home or overseas. These Americans would not let down their own men but, not being miners or, say, mechanics or farmers, they try to pursue their regular occupations and are out of the war effort or, as the report says, only ankle deep in it.

No Blame Intended Is political disunity a serious trouble with us? It would seem so for there is great bitterness among us and it is our natural way to go excited and use harsh language in election years. But couldn't our President help soothe matters by indicating that those individuals and publications of his following who hurl at his political opponents such shocking epithets as Quisling, fascist, pro-Nazi, traitor and Sixth Columnist are not speaking for the head of the government. A little repudiation here would help, and it certainly could do no harm.

Up to now, miracles have been performed, in the conversion and construction of plants and the housing and training of fighters. We were caught flat-footed when France fell and made a hesitant start even then because that was a campaign year and President Roosevelt couldn't bear down too hard lest the people suspect that he was trying to drive them to war. The military scene in the south and southwest is startling. There is no doubt that our men soldiered with broomsticks and stovepipes and laundry wagons were labeled "tank" there are now genuine weapons. It may be remembered, too, that less than a year ago we were still hearing more talk of tooling than of production. But this report of the OWI is able to say, amid its gloomy truths, that the United States produced, in June, more planes than any other country in the world, but not enough and fewer than we had said we would make.

It probably wasn't as gloomy as it could have been, this dark report of unused energies and ability. It did not go into the military situation which at this hour looks tragic. It said "we could lose this war" but it might have said "So far we are losing this war and things are looking worse."

There is not enough information in the report. It should be followed by another one telling the people who aren't in it more than ankle deep on the home front how they can help cure this shortage of materials and this deficiency of small vessels and all.

Word Stories By W. Worthington Wells.

When one makes little slips of speech or commits slight offenses against social conventions he is said to have made a "faux pas." Faux pas is a French word pronounced "fo pa," the "fo" is the same as that in (foe) and "pa" is the same as that in (papa). The plural of faux pas is the same as the singular.

Faux pas is most frequently used in connection with social customs. A slip of speech could very well be considered an error but a breach of social conventions could best be described as a faux pas.

Carte blanche is another French word that is used quite widely in our newspapers. It means a piece of paper properly signed, as, a blank check which gives the receiver permission to fill in whatever amount he desires. It might mean a carte blanche order to perform a task, regardless of cost. An unlimited letter of credit with carte blanche powers.

The pronunciation of carte blanche has not been sufficiently anglicized to give here a clear and concise English pronunciation. The nearest point we can hope to reach is "kart blanch" with a long "a" in the first part and a broad (a) in the latter.

WANTS TALMADGE FOR GOVERNOR
Editor, Constitution: This is one question which should be raised by every thoughtful Georgian in the present campaign for Governor and, bearing in mind it is a question upon which the people may easily find conclusive evidence.

What question can be as important as is this of the state's finances? No, money is not everything. It is not as important as some other things, some ways considered.

Notwithstanding reduced revenues from many sources, due to war conditions, Talmadge has performed what, to hosts of good men, would have been impossible. This marvelous achievement of Eugene Talmadge, in righting the finances of the state, amidst such difficulties, will stand a long time to his honor and glory.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

THE MARINES HAVE LANDED I stood up and cheered when the wires ticked out the news that the American troops had landed on the Solomon Islands.

A few minutes later an office boy puffed in with the copy . . .

The United States Marines had made the landing.

As an old Marine I stood up and cheered again.

The boys have made landings, as their song says, from the Halls of Montezuma to the shores of Tripoli.

They are the only American military forces to make a landing on Japanese territory. They have landed on most of the world's territory.

But this was a new one—the Solomon Islands.

It must have been hell to see and hear—the big guns of the fleet, the shore guns, the awful sound of machine guns, the ear-splitting sound of mortars . . . the mists from the humid jungles, the scream of birds, and maybe, and very likely, a steaming heavy rain. It rains there almost every day.

I'm glad the Marines had the honor. Not that they could have done it without the Navy's covering guns.

I'm sorry, too, because they are sure to have got cut up going in. But man, it must have been grand to see. They did it in style.

You can imagine the feelings of those boys as their transports opened up and put the "alligators," the Marines' invasion barges, into the water.

And then they aimed for that jungle shore—Imagine the feeling of them in the boats when the firing began—Imagine their feelings when they ran ashore and dug in to form the beachhead.

You can ask your God for that beachhead to hold until the guns get ashore to back them up.

You can ask your God that the Japanese do not get control of the air.

From the Halls of Montezuma—to the shores of the Solomon Islands.

THE BEACHHEAD About two-thirds of the Marine Corps is from the south.

There were Georgia boys, and Atlanta boys, in that landing. Some of them will lose their lives there.

They went in to drive the Japanese out so that they might be removed from that strategic location, and so that we might have it for the plan of our attack against Japan.

They are not much to see. The larger islands are in parallel groups. The largest island is 120 miles long and 35 miles wide. There are two active volcanoes on the islands and many extinct ones. One of the volcanic cones reaches up more than 7,000 feet. There are about 200,000 natives on the islands and very few white people.

The Japanese had landed heavy forces and had built new airports. There must have been a very real element of surprise in the landing and, from some point, we must have had some very good air support.

Discovered in 1844, the islands were thought by early adventurers to be the site of the fabulous mines of Solomon.

They are about 1,000 miles from the northeast coast of Australia. It is there that today the Marines are trying to hold a beachhead so that our forces may follow them and take the islands.

1942 MARINES The old Marines, who made famous that newspaper tag line, "The Marines have landed and have the situation well in hand," could do some great things.

They could shoot that Springfield rifle, for one thing. The new Marines have been trained as shock troops.

They have been trained in the art of landing. Their new boats are designed for that. Their training in North Carolina, at the new post there, has been designed for this, and other jobs like it.

There are no more expert troops in the world than those men who landed on the Solomon Islands.

The Marines have landed—the situation is different. I'd give anything to know about the airplanes in the sky.

LAND-BASED PLANES Our losses were heavy. There will be more. But, if you had a boy in that job you know his chances of coming out were better than that of any boy in any other branch of the service. He had been trained for it. He had the equipment.

His ultimate chances will depend on the sky and the planes in it. This war has shown that land-based planes have a great advantage. A navy can be routed by land-based planes. The Japanese took the Philippines only because our planes were destroyed in the initial raids and we had no navy there. Much depends on what air force we can keep in the air.

But, the job can be done. Japan endured losses to gain what she has won. Germany is losing men in the battle for Russia. At any rate, our side is on the offensive. We've taken the ball and started an attack.

The nation will thrill to that and pray for the men there at the edge of the jungle, holding on.

If the Cook Boasts About Other Dishes, His Silence About One Is Suspicious

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

Elmer Davis is making a valiant effort to give people the news as it develops. He could render a great service, at the present moment, by discovering and revealing the truth about our guns. People trust him and will believe what he says.

There should be no need of such a revelation. But Washington correspondents and news magazines with enormous circulation and great influence have repeatedly declared that our weapons are inferior to Germany's, and many of our people are worried and distraught. They have a right to know the truth, whatever it may be. Certainly our enemies know it.

People can understand why our guns were few and inferior last December when the Japs attacked us. Pacifist influence had almost completely destroyed our armament industry. Wishing only for peace, we had planned only for peace.

When war caught us without weapons, as usual, England provided anti-aircraft guns to protect the canal. But we needed many more guns quickly, and there was only one way to get them. That was to use the blueprints we had and the tools we had. Guns of any kind were better than none. As we deliberately produced inferior planes while awaiting blueprints for better ones, so we made more tools to produce second-best guns in quantity while our experts developed better guns and the tools to make them.

Number of patriotic women, I am more or less reliably informed, are painting their nether limbs with a semi-transparent liquid which takes the place of stockings. Listening in on a hen party a few evenings ago I learned that while this liquid hose looks all right, it won't stand wetting. The complaint was a fair lady who had been splashed by a passing automobile, with the result that half her hose had vanished and there she was, in deep disgrace, like a mid-Victorian dame who had dropped one of her seven petticoats at Five Points.

I apologize for butting into something which is distinctly out of my department, but I do ask: Why paint legs? With the flesh-colored hose which prevailed before restrictions I was often interested in endeavoring to discover whether a femme in the party was wearing stockings or had appeared nude from the knees down, the brazen hussy! There were two ways to find out. The safe way was to ask. And I've always been cautious about asking questions. So I never knew.

But, if stockings were so transparent that nobody would tell whether you had any on or not, why pay good money for them? And why paint legs? That is, unless black or chocolate colored hose come into fashion, when either hose or paint will be indicated, as the specialists say.

In last week's issue Roy explains that his linyote operator has gone on a vacation and he has been wrestling with the machine himself—a little rusty but doing the best he can.

I have tackled lawnmowers and early model cars and typewriters of strange makes and even a telephone switchboard, of which I made a horrible mess. But I wouldn't go near a linyote on a bet. In the first place, I don't belong to the union and besides that the darn things scare me. They're too intelligent.

Be that as it may, the Calhoun Times looks just about as free from typographical errors as if Roy's professional had been on the job.

Seems the Georgia public is more interested in politics than in the war in Russia. Why not?

The other day a fifteen-dollar gear broke in the transmission of a Suburban Coach. That sounds like a minor incident—but it took three weeks and five hundred bucks of material and work to get the Coach back into service.

For the gear manufacturer is on War work, and we had to practically remodel the Coach underneath so as to use another kind of gear that was available.

We mention this incident because it demonstrates what we are up against, all of us, these War days. When it happens to your wife's cake mixer, only your household is inconvenienced. When it happens to a Suburban Coach, a vital piece of equipment drops out of service, and sometimes a lot of folks are delayed.

Fortunately we have been able to maintain schedules pretty well... but not always. The nice thing is that Atlanta folks are understanding—and when we do get jammed up because of War condition, they recognize the problem and are patient about it.

Nature Study.

Every week I am reading in the papers about mother dogs adopting kittens or mother cats adopting puppies and all that kind of nature study, but I wish somebody would tell me how to teach my dog Ding to accept as a guest in the house a yellow Persian kitten.

My son and daughter brought her over a week ago and my dog Ding evinced intense interest. So did Missie, the said kitten. But Missie, though her fur is so luxuriant it makes her look like a big cat, is just about as large as a sparrow. And Ding's idea of affection is to chew on a friend's thumb. We have feared that in an exceptional moment of devotion he would bite Missie in two.

So Missie spends her days on the upstairs sleeping porch, safely locked in.

But my dog Ding has a one-track mind. Until Missie arrived he was never interested in upstairs. Now he spends all his waking hours on the floor outside the door, sniffing at the crack beneath it. He knows there's a cat out there and soon or late he is sure they will meet again. I don't know whether it's love or hate, but nobody wants to take a chance.

I wish Missie was a full-grown Persian. She'd have chased Ding clear out of the house and perhaps the neighborhood before now. And then they could have made friends.

What's Cooking?

There are strange signs and portents in the heavens above and the earth below. The Fourth of July was chilly—at least, out of my house. Lakes overflow in one region while there's drought in another. South Georgia woman bore her second set of triplets.

And now two guinea hens in Early county have laid eggs with geographical markings—one a map of Australia, on the other a map of North America.

Undoubtedly there is more in this than meets the eye, as the grapefruit remarked to the guest at breakfast. Signs and portents—if we could only read them!

This has been a tough summer on columnists. Ralph T. Jones laid up for quite a spell. I fell down and went home and now the Early County News reports that one of my favorite competitors, Earl "Tiger" Pickle, is in bed for an indefinite duration. But Eleanor is going strong—and places.

Steel shortage or no, there are just as many pins in a new shirt. But, as the one I bought in a bargain basement was of pre-war vintage.

I know of no enemies I possess in the restrictions and rationing division of the government, but if I had one I'd pull wires to send him to a steel salvage mission—to extract the pins from all the shirts between Seattle and Key West.

THE AMERICAN FIGHTER
However much we may be distressed by the immediate outcome of this fracas which Hitler has imposed upon civilization, I am certain of one thing—Hitler is going to find out that war is hell, and when our armed forces do get to him, they will convince him that Sherman was putting it lightly when he said: "War is hell!" We are going to beat it out of him. Don't fool yourself.

I base my confidence upon two facts, or truths, if you please. First, we are fighting for a righteous cause. I believe that I could argue it, but I don't see any need to argue that point.

Second, we have the men to make the fight, and we have the equipment for them. I grant you we have the bottleneck of shipping, but that problem will be solved. I wish I could report some things that I saw on the Georgia coast last week. That problem will be solved. We have the men who are not going to stop until they get to Hitler. And we have the equipment, and we are going to get the men and

BEAUTICIAN AND THE BOMB—Corporal Joseph A. Ryckley, of Atlanta, is one of seven brothers, six in the Army Air Corps, all formerly in the beauty shop business. Now stationed at the New Orleans Army Air Base, Corporal Ryckley spent two years in Panama.

Six Ryckley Brothers Abandon Beauty Business To Fight War

Out to put a permanent wave in the Axis are six of the seven Ryckley brothers, who are neophytes of the hair net at 12, curling iron custodians at 16, and owners of three Atlanta beauty parlors before they went in the Army Air Corps.

Joseph, 31, who is about midway between oldest and youngest, has the longest Army record, having spent two years with the Air Corps in Panama, and is now a corporal at the New Orleans Army Air Base. Robert, who celebrates his 37th birthday today, is at Fatterton Field, Dayton, Ohio, and enlisted six months ago along with Alfred, 44; Charles, 39; Eugene, 28, and Henry, 26, who are all at Wellston Air Depot, Wellston, Ga. All seven are married.

Emile, 35, is the only one of the beauty shop brothers still in business here. Mother of the seven brothers, Mrs. Martha E. Ryckley, began in the cut-and-curl business in a shop in Columbus, Ga., before her oldest son was born. The Ryckleys started coiffuring Atlanta women 20 years ago, about the same time Emile started his beauty shop career.

Perhaps Mrs. Ryckley's motto was "Spare the comb and spoil the child," for her sons, wise in the mysticisms of manicures and such (a blank spot in most male mind), grew up to know a smart move when they see it, as they proved by lining up with Uncle Sam.

Georgia Boys Swell Navy Cadet Rolls
Committee Working To Form Four Atlantic Squadrons.

While the Atlanta Naval Aviation Committee continued to beat the drums today for the organization of four Atlanta "Navigator Squadrons" the Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board out on West Peachtree street announced the enlistment of more than a score more young Georgians.

Five Atlantans included in the latest enlistments for officer pilot training are Ben T. Huie Jr., son of Georgia's commissioner of labor and Mrs. Ben T. Huie Sr., of 887 Forrest road; James Frederick Mason, 2048 Cherokee Circle; Thomas Jackson Hill Jr., 547 Howell place; Lindon Law Cox Jr., 2131 McLendon avenue, and Robert Watkins, 45 Eleventh street.

Other Georgians enlisted include Douglas Carlton Adams, Jonesboro; Thomas Price Stubbs, Douglas; John Clarke Smith, Hamilton; Adrian Stanley Bazzel, and William Benton Belote Jr., Bainbridge; John Montgomery Ward, East Ellijay; George Lynn Brown, Perry; James Curtis Graydon, Carrollton; Homer Vesere Blacklock, Albany; Paschal Hughey McKibben, Locust Grove; Richard Lowery, Dismuke; Lovic Joseph Marbury, Albany; Smiley Bird Simmons, Arlington; Mehl Busselle Renner, Cedartown; Gosssett Sydnor Commerce; Hermon Cleveland Odum, Savannah; Wesley Melvin McKenzie, Cusseta, and Winfred Elwood Souther, Dalton.

With additional Georgians being examined today, a sharp upswing in enlistments from Atlanta was predicted as the Civilian Naval Aviation Committee, headed by O. C. Hubert, sought the organization of four squadrons of 30 men each, from Atlanta. A contest is under way to select a name for the "Navigator" squadrons, with war bonds and stamps offered as prizes. Next week will be "Naval Aviation Week" in Atlanta and will be climaxed by a mammoth "Navy Wings of Gold Flight Party" on the night of August 22, at the city auditorium, a dance to which single young men of Fulton and DeKalb counties who are high school graduates will be invited, with their dates.

Dean Chapman Lauds Work of Farm Bureau
Special to THE CONSTITUTION. MONROE, Ga., Aug. 10.—At a meeting of the Kiwanis Club last week Dean Paul Chapman lauded the work being done by the Farm Bureau and stressed the necessity of farmers being organized in order to get justice in a country which is "controlled by pressure groups."

He commended the proposed establishment of a refrigeration plant here and emphasized its many benefits. The speaker pleaded for a better understanding of parity and for a fair deal for the farmers in prices for his products and governmental affairs.

His speaking was followed by a barbecue at which several hundred persons were in attendance.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(AP) Pennies are out in figuring Alaska's ceiling prices. Explaining that pennies are not used as a medium of exchange in many Alaskan communities, Price Administrator Leon Henderson today ordered maximum prices adjusted to the nearest nickel.

Milk Group To Ask OPA For Increase

Current Price Threatening Production, Linder Says.

Efforts to prevail on the OPA to permit a cent-a-quart increase in the retail price of milk in Georgia were decided upon yesterday at a hearing called by the State Milk Control Board.

Charles G. Duncan, board director, said that if the increase were granted, it would be passed on to the producers. This would raise the price they get for milk from 30 to 34 cents a gallon.

Numerous producers and producer-distributors, as well as Duncan and Commissioner of Agriculture Tom Linder, asserted that many producers would not be able to stay in business at the prices they are now receiving because of mounting production costs.

Shortage Developed.
"Unless some relief is provided," said Duncan, "we'll have to 'art rationing milk by fall.'" He added that a serious shortage of milk already has developed.

A representative of an Atlanta consumer group, Mrs. W. L. Fleisher Jr., protested, however, against any increase in the retail price. She said none of the savings of every-other-day delivery, instituted as a tire conservation measure, had been passed on to consumers and complained that there is "a spread of 8 1/2 cents a quart" between the consumer and producer price.

Attending the hearing was Neal Waterstreet, chief of the dairy division of OPA. He had to leave for Washington, though, before the meeting was an hour old, and there was a scramble to speak while he was present.

Costs Increased.
Linder had spoken, saying dairy men's feed costs were up 15 to 30 per cent and their labor costs up 50 to 100 per cent over a year ago, and a representative of the producer-distributors was speaking when Mrs. Fleisher interrupted.

"I think it's an outrage not to let the consumer speak while Mr. Waterstreet is here," she said. At this point Linder broke in, "Now many of you producers here feel you must have a substantial increase in price?" he asked. Many hands went up.

"I'd like to ask a question," said Duncan. "How many of you would increase production if you got a higher price?" About the same number of hands appeared to go up.

Then Mrs. Fleisher put in a question. "How many of you feel it's fair to have an 8 1/2-cent spread between the price you get and the price the consumers pay?" No hands, although she said that this time Waterstreet was half way up the aisle and almost everyone was trying to talk.

To Submit Data.
Linder remarked at one point that the "consumers, instead of worrying about getting a lower price, are going to have to worry about getting any milk at all."

After the meeting Duncan said the consensus was that data on production costs obtained at the hearing should be submitted to the OPA in support of a petition which, he disclosed, already has been presented to the federal price-control agency for an increase in retail prices.

He said the petition, as did today's hearing, relates specifically to the Atlanta milkshed, but he added that if it is approved similar increases probably will be effected in the state's other milksheds.

Meets Friday.
Until the OPA acts, he said, no action by the state board is likely, although it will meet Friday to consider the situation.

Duncan asserted that unless the OPA permits the higher retail price, the board probably will be unable to provide a price increase for producers. The OPA set retail prices at the March level. In Atlanta this is 15 cents a quart in stores and 16 cents home-delivered.

Richard L. Hull, president of the Irwindale dairy, suggested that the proposed increase in the retail price of milk be passed on to the producer.

Paul Ficht, of the Florida milk board, and Frank Stewart, of the Alabama milk board, attended the hearing as observers. They said similar situations prevailed in their states, adding they were interested in obtaining the same treatment from the OPA as Georgia.

Major Whitehead Goes to Third War
Special to THE CONSTITUTION. ATHENS, Ga., Aug. 10.—When Clarke county's 55 selective service inductees left here last week for military service, it was a portly, gray-haired man who stole the show.

The man was Major Walter Whitehead, already a veteran of two wars, marching off for duty in his third conflict. Major Whitehead served in the Spanish-American War and the first World War and was recently called from the reserves for service with rank of major. He accompanied the inductees to an induction center for physical examination.

Major Whitehead, a resident of Carlton, near here, has served his district as state senator in the general assembly, as representative from his county, as chairman of the tenth district Democratic congressional committee and for many years has been prominent in American Legion affairs.

3,000 Prisoners Will Be Placed On Honor During Blackouts

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., Aug. 10.—(AP)—The dimout is catching up with San Quentin, California's huge penitentiary for first timers and as a result 3,000 inmates are going on their honor.

The nightly parade of hundreds of men across the three-acre yard to and from the prison theater and night school will continue, Warden Clinton Duffy said in an interview today—even after August 20, when a coastwide dimout ordered by the Army puts out all of the lights which have made the penitentiary's gray walls blaze like a carnival every night for years.

The honor system, enforced by the inmates themselves, will be relied upon to replace the disciplinary glare of the 3,000-watt lamps which have exposed the yard to a glare brighter than daylight. There will be no extra guards.

Three Georgia Officers Listed To Direct OWI For Promotion Office Here

Colonel Irvine, Atlanta, Nominated for Brigadier General.

Colonel Willard W. Irvine, of Atlanta, and two other Georgia Army officers were listed among the 105 nominations for promotions submitted to the senate yesterday by President Roosevelt.

The other Georgians are Brigadier General John B. Anderson, of Columbus, to major general, and Colonel George D. Shea, of Augusta, who was recommended for promotion to brigadier general along with Colonel Irvine.

The Atlanta is a native of Georgia and a graduate of Emory University, having received his B. S. degree from that institution in 1913.

He began his military career with the Georgia National Guard before the last war and saw active service in World War I with the coast artillery.

He was elevated to colonel on December 24, 1941.

Allgood Given Ten Years in Attaway Case

Plea of Guilty Entered at Forsyth on Perjury Charge.

FORSYTH, Ga., Aug. 10.—(AP)—Ervin Allgood was sentenced today to 10 years' imprisonment after his guilty plea to a perjury charge growing out of his testimony in the trial of two men last May for the 1940 shooting of Lloyd Attaway, Dublin automobile salesman.

Allgood, indicted last week, was the state's chief witness at the trial of James Canady and John Nathan Cannon. Superior Court Judge Ogden Persons directed verdicts of acquittal for Canady and Cannon after Allgood testified he did not see the shooting.

The state had sought to show that Allgood was with Canady and Cannon on the night of the slaying and that he saw the shooting.

Allgood was arrested on the perjury charge after his testimony. Attaway was killed November 9, 1940, and his body found beside a highway near here by a rural mail carrier.

93 'Terrorists' Slain By Nazis in France

VICHY, Aug. 10.—(AP)—German authorities in Paris announced tonight the execution of 93 "terrorists" as the result of a series of recent anti-German attacks.

25 Industrial Firms Urged To Alter Hours

Earlier Opening Said Vital To Stagger Plan's Success.

Participation of 25 more industrial firms in the Atlanta staggered hours plan is "absolutely essential to the efficient functioning of the entire program," Chamber of Commerce officials said yesterday.

At a meeting of the organization's traffic safety committee, plans were laid for an immediate windup drive to enlist the support of these concerns.

While the general effect of staggering has been a reduction of the morning and afternoon transit peaks, as anticipated, it was pointed out that failure of industrial firms to adopt earlier hours has resulted in a new interval of downtown congestion just before 8 o'clock in the morning.

This is caused, it was brought out, by the fact that many industrial workers cross town to their jobs and pass through the business district at the same time with many downtown workers. If the industrial workers move a half hour earlier, this heavy demand will be reduced.

The 25 firms being asked to go on staggered hours employ about 5,000 workers.

Acceptance of staggering by these concerns, by a few more downtown offices and business houses and by the junior and senior high schools will round out the complete program, it was stated.

Trial To Open At Forsyth For Chicago Quartet

Four Face Charges of Robbing, Attacking 2 DeKalb Police.

Four Chicago youths will go on trial at 9 o'clock this morning in Monroe superior court at Forsyth on charges of attacking and robbing two DeKalb county policemen and leaving them tied to trees last June 19.

The prosecution will be handled by Roy C. Leathers, DeKalb county solicitor, and Frank B. Williamson, solicitor general of the Monroe circuit. Judge Ogden Persons, of the Flint circuit court, will preside.

Leathers said the quartet, Stanley Kosicek, Bruno Gnatek, Frederick Hoppe and Frank B. Williamson, could draw the death penalty under a section of the state law which makes armed robbery a capital offense.

They are charged with binding DeKalb Policemen Ben Hensler and Hoyt Sutton to trees and stealing a police automobile in which they were being returned from Jacksonville, Fla., to face robbery charges in DeKalb county. They were arrested in Swainsboro.

Health Law Test Cases Dropped

Habeas corpus proceedings to test the city's right to hold for examination and then intern victims of venereal diseases for treatment were withdrawn yesterday in Judge Virlyn B. Moore's division of Fulton superior court, when four women complainants refused to press their demands for freedom.

Acting through their attorneys, the women—Lucille Nations, Lorene Moore, Beatrice Paschal and Maude Harris—asked that the suits be dismissed without prejudice until state cases which have been made against them are adjudicated.

Assistant City Attorney Frank Hooper Jr. agreed to the motion, but added that the withdrawal does not yet settle the question as to the city's authority to hold without bond for examination women arrested under suspicious circumstances, and to intern those affected for treatment.

The Army and Navy in Georgia

From a Sixth Air Force flying field, "somewhere in the Caribbean," comes a rather late dispatch of July Fourth celebrations, and news of six Georgians stationed there.

The civilian population, whom Technical Sergeant L. C. McCart, of Atlanta, terms the originators of the Good Neighbor policy, bent over backwards to help the soldiers celebrate the American holiday, holding special track and swimming meets for those who were off duty for the day.

Says Sergeant McCart, whose mother, Mrs. Lin Bates, lives at 324 Windsor street, of the air station (whose exact location is one of those military secrets): "It's a veritable mountain paradise. The climate is ideal, the people are unusually hospitable, and it has everything to offer in the way of hunting and fishing."

Georgians who took part in the swimming meet are: Robert Dickerson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Medie Dickerson, of Lyons; Leroy Scott, brother of Mrs. Jessie Timbs, of Griffin; Ralph C. Henderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Henderson, of Rome; George D. Latham, son of Joseph L. Latham, of Fairburn; and Tony Underwood, son of Mrs. D. F. Bragdon, of Quitman.

CORPORAL HARDMAN WITH COAST GUARD

Jesse Cyril Hardman, corporal in the Coast Guard Artillery, of Winder, has been in Australia five months. Inducted at Fort Monmouth in May, 1941, Corporal Hardman was stationed at Camp Stewart before going overseas. The son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hardman, of Winder, Corporal Hardman is a graduate of Winder High school and was employed with Upshaw Packing House in Atlanta.

T. M. BANKS' MANS' DELAWARE LIGHTHOUSE

Twenty-two days of every month, T. M. Banks, of Atlanta, mans the Harbor Refuge lighthouse just off the Delaware coast, and spends his leave with his wife, Mrs. Marie Banks, in Philadelphia. But having a two-week leave, he visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Banks, at 1524 Murphy avenue, this month.

Three years in the Coast Guard, Banks, a seaman, first class, has served on the U. S. S. Mohawk, and the U. S. S. Naugatuck. He also has been stationed at Camp May, N. J., and in Philadelphia, where he met and married his wife.

Other low-price, vitamin-high foods are also plentiful now, so the price is right, and since fresh meat is still a problem, buying this protein food, which makes a fine meat substitute, means giving a boost to Uncle Sam.

Bulk Users Sign For More Sugar

Registration of Fulton county industrial and institutional sugar allotments started yesterday and will continue through Thursday at Commercial High school.

Only a handful of bulk user representatives showed up during the first day, the Office of Price Administration reported.

Offices will be kept open from 9 o'clock in the mornings until 4:30 in the afternoons, OPA said. Bonuses of 25 per cent on four months' allotments will be given institutions, while industries will receive 10 per cent bonuses for the same period.

LIUTENANT ADAIR RECEIVES HIS WINGS

Lieutenant Junius M. Adair, of Atlanta, a cavalry officer formerly stationed at Camp Blanding, Fla., recently received his Air Force observer's wings at Brooks Field, the Army's aerial observation training school near San Antonio, Texas.

Lieutenant Adair is one of many ground force officers detailed to the air force for observation training since the outbreak of the war. His duties will be to scout the enemy lines, and help co-ordinate attacks by ground forces.

RUFUS H. DOBBS JR. GOES TO ARKANSAS

Second Lieutenant Rufus H. Dobbs Jr., former treasurer of the Industrial Life & Health Insurance Company, Atlanta, who resigned to accept a commission in the Army, left last May, has been transferred to the new Advanced Twin Engine Flying School at Blytheville, Ark., from Maxwell Field, where he was in the post administrative inspector's office.

Lieutenant Dobbs lived at 3905 Tuxedo road, Atlanta. He was a graduate of the Georgia Military Academy, where he was a cadet captain, and of Emory University. He was a member of Rotary, the Athletic Club, the Shrine and the Piedmont Driving Club.

CONYERS MAN IS IN AUSTRALIA

Thomas Owen Crutchfield, of Conyers, Ga., is chief cook with a Quartermaster unit stationed in Australia since February. Son of Mr. and Mrs. John Crutchfield, of Conyers, Crutchfield graduated from Conyers High school and was employed in Conyers and in Atlanta before his enlistment in May, 1941. Inducted at Ft. McPherson, he was stationed at Camp Stewart before going overseas. He wrote his aunt, Mrs. R. L. Stowers, of Atlanta: "The people are awfully friendly and we get plenty of good food."

ENSIGN D. G. McNAIR STUDIES AT CORNELL

Ensign D. Gene McNair, assigned to the USNR at Cornell, Ithaca, N. Y., for a six months' course in communications, is the son of Deputy Sheriff and Mrs. G. D. McNair, of Fulton county. He graduated from Emory University and received his M. S. degree in 1939. Before entering the service, he was acting president of the Coca-Cola Company at Raleigh, N. C. His wife, the former Miss Lillian Carpenter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Paul Carpenter, of Atlanta, is visiting her parents, but will join Ensign McNair shortly.

Two Georgians, graduated recently from the Air Forces Officer Training School at Maxwell, Ala., are now preparing for executive duties in the Air Forces. They are First Lieutenant Carl Wallace Seivers, whose wife, Mrs. Carolyn Seivers, lives in Decatur, and Second Lieutenant Earl A. McFerrin, son of Mrs. A. McFerrin, of Hapeville.

Three Georgians recently received promotions at Morris Field, Charlotte, N. C., an Army air base. Charles I. Manetta, of Atlanta, and Wilton L. McWhorter, of Marietta, received staff sergeant ratings, and Robert S. Nwlin, of Atlanta, won his corporal's chevrons.

Opposite View On Federation Aids Campaign

New Clubs Form as Sportsmen Rally to Cause of Conservation.

By JOHN MARTIN.

The Talmadge stamp of disapproval on the Georgia Wildlife Federation, pitted against Ellis Arnall's acknowledgment that it holds the solution to Georgia's game and fish problems, has added impetus to the organization movement over the state.

The Federation yesterday carried its campaign to the edge of Okefenokee Swamp, forming the Charlton County Conservation Club at a meeting in Folkston, the gateway to the land of trembling earth.

Hunters and fishermen of Dougherty county will meet at the New Albany hotel tonight and elect officers as a preliminary to active participation in the Federation's battle in that important sector.

Tomorrow Baker county will join the bandwagon in a session at Newton and Thursday Appling county will erect the statewide banner which stands against the disgraceful Talmadge-crow system which now contaminates the state's woods and waters.

The Federation, which stands for sound conservation and, therefore, is opposed to the methods employed by Talmadge and appointees, has boosted its club membership far over the 100-mark and reports that hunters and fishermen everywhere are responding favorably to the aims and ambitions of the organization.

Luttrell Lands Terror Bout; Manager 'Out'

The wrestling match of the century will be held in Atlanta Thursday night at the city auditorium. Promoter Abe Simon gleefully announced yesterday that after three weeks' negotiations he had signed the Golden Terror and Cowboy Luttrell for this week's headliner.

The match was arranged when the City Athletic Commission took a firm stand and told the Terror that his 280-pound manager must be kept out of the ring at all costs. Luttrell had been holding out for this clause in the contract, being fully aware that the Terror's 41 consecutive victories had been at least partially due to his manager's help. The manager will be permitted to give the Terror advice and moral support outside the ring, however.

The Terror is unknown and undefeated. He uses every foul in the book, employing tactics similar to those associated with Luttrell's performances. Fans believe that Luttrell should have a real chance to unmask the Terror and expose his identity. If it takes meanness and toughness to accomplish the feat, the Cowboy should be the answer to the fans' prayers.

Thursday's semifinal promises some of the fastest and cleverest action of the season, pitting Ronny Etchison against Jack Kennedy. Babe Zaharias will take on big Jack Dillon in the opener.

Paul Hug Reports As 2d Lieutenant

MARTIN, Tenn., Aug. 10.—(AP)—Paul Hug, coach and director of physical education at the University of Tennessee Junior College here, has reported for duty as a second lieutenant in the Army Air Forces.

Hug, a graduate of the University of Tennessee, where he played football, will serve as a physical instructor. He reported at Miami Beach, Fla.

After receiving assurances from physicians that his wife and baby were in good condition, Baer left on a trip to the south.

State Will Eliminate Education 'Frills'

OCILLA, Ga., Aug. 10.—(AP)—The Jeff Davis Memorial Park has received seven antique guns as a gift from L. Mitchell Coffee, of Eastman, as a memorial to his grandfathers. The oldest gun in the collection, a flintlock of British make, dates back to about 1722.

A state school program for the coming year that will eliminate many "educational frills" for subjects vital to war-time learning will be outlined at a four-day meeting of county school superintendents beginning today in the State Department of Education. "We intend to carry out recommendations of the recently-formed Wartime Education Commission," said Dr. M. D. Collins, state school superintendent. "Those recommendations were to cut out some of the educational frills and concentrate on health, government, mathematics and other similar subjects."

How To Do Your Part When You Must Travel

How railroad travelers can do their part on the home front to help win the war is pointed out in 10 "golden rules" of wartime transportation suggested by Robert Thomson, passenger traffic manager of the Chicago & North Western Railway Company.

"American railroads, in addition to transporting 4,500,000 troops during the first five months of this year, are continuing to do everything in their power to see that war workers, industrialists and other businessmen as well as those seeking recreation reach their destinations with the greatest convenience and comfort possible without hampering the nation's war efforts," said Mr. Thomson.

"The suggested 10 'golden rules' of wartime transportation for rail passengers to observe. By following the suggestions, passengers will be doing much to further the continuation of railroads they now enjoy as well as assisting railroad considerably in the job of 'keeping 'em rolling' for victory," Mr. Thomson said. The "golden rules" are as follows:

1. Travel lightly. Don't take any more baggage on your trip than is necessary. In this way you may save a seat for some soldier or sailor and make traveling more pleasant for yourself.
2. Determine what your travel requirements are well in advance of your trip. You help the railway ticket or information clerk greatly if you have all your wants well in mind, thus saving his as well as your time.
3. Try to start on your vacation or trip in the middle of the week rather than during a weekend when traffic may be heavier. If you can, you might arrange your vacation for other than the mid-summer months.
4. If you find reservations are

Heffernan Predicts A Coming Epidemic Of Starry Divorces

By Harold Heffernan.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 6.—Divorce sensations involving three star couples, none married more than a year, are expected to compete with war headlines before month's end. One major lot is resorting to desperate means in an effort to patch up the differences between its leading male star and a mate who wants to return to the screen.

For closeups in "Once Upon a Honeymoon," Cary Grant tapes his third-finger-left-hand rather than slip that gold wedding ring off. As for another newlywed, Joan Crawford in "Reunion" masters the dilemma of wearing gloves with every costume. Joan is extremely proud of the broad, old-fashioned ring given her by her third husband, Phil Terry, and keeps it constantly on display.

You can't find a more superstitious actor in Hollywood than Brian Donlevy. His fetishes along that line are legion. For one thing, he'll never wear anything but solid colors. When he re-ported at MGM to make "Clear for Action," he insisted on wearing something Clark Gable has had in his wardrobe. He follows this procedure at every studio, in each of which he has a favorite star.

Director King Vidor will leave for Detroit next week to familiarize himself with wartime industrial plants. They'll be the background for "America," a saga of this country's war effort.

The Nazis have developed a habit of moving in on Sonja Henie. They took over her beautiful home in Oslo last year. A few weeks ago those saboteurs who were landed on Long Island from a submarine, crawled out of the surf and found themselves in the backyard of Sonja's newly-completed home. It now bristles with machine guns. . . . Fellow named Terence Kevin O'Brien had his birthday party and it was a huge success. His guests: The children of all enlisted men at Camp Callen, Fort MacArthur and Mines Field. The party was held at the home of Terence's father, Pat, in Brentwood. . . .

Anthony Quinn, Dana Andrews and Francis Ford this week stood on a stage at 20th-Fox and watched the filming of their most important scene in "The Ox-Bow Incident," the sequence in which they are hanged. "The camera shows only the rumps of the three horses on which we are supposed to be sitting," explained Andrews. "Three men whip the horses and they gallop out. The audience won't see us actually but in the minds of every person there will be one picture—the murder of innocent men."

They may be a dedication to Mrs. James Devereaux, wife of Major Devereaux, Wake Island Marine commandant, now a Jap prisoner, in Paramount's picture soon to be released. Mrs. Devereaux died in Washington a few days ago and Brian Donlevy, who plays the major in "Wake Island," has petitioned the studio to use the dedication.

Fatigue Is Worst Enemy of Trimness

By Ida Jean Kain.

One of the most outstandingly beautiful of the movie stars once told me the only time she loses her figure is when she is very tired. There's an explanation for that. You've seen what happens to your face when you are so tired you could drop. All the lines are there. The same thing happens to your figure.

Fatigue causes your muscles to lose tone and your entire musculature seems to droop. When you measure after an exceptionally tiring day, you may measure a full inch shorter than you actually are, and your waist may be an inch larger than when you started out so briskly in the morning. Of course, you look dumpy even though you're not!

The better the posture and figure you have to start with, the less you show the bad effects of fatigue. Make a habit of standing with your body in good alignment so that your bones partially support your weight. This not only makes it easier on your muscles but strengthens them, to hold you in proper posture.

Ideally, we should try to work in correct posture and to rest before we are overly tired. But this isn't an ideal world and we get plenty tired before we have a chance to rest. When we do rest, it's an excellent idea to counteract gravity and tone the muscles that make for good posture at the same time.

The way to do this is to lie on your back and elevate your feet—two pillows under your hips and three under your lower legs. That upside-down position helps to put your abdominal organs back where they belong, relieves congestion in the feet and ankles, and sends the circulation into the upper part of your body. It even gives your face a lift!

From there, it is easy to do a few exercises that clinch the good work. Try flexing alternate knees toward the chest. Do this slowly and rhythmically. Another exercise is to raise one leg from hip, knee straight, in a circular movement. Do five lazy circles with one leg, then five with the other. For a third exercise, swing alternate legs straight in the air, from hips, making a right angle with trunk. And, last, lie with arms straight out from shoulders on the floor and swing alternate legs up and over to touch toes to opposite fingertips.

Do each exercise slowly and precisely and rest between times. As you go through the motions, press the small of the back down against the floor and pull up and in with your lower abdominal muscles. If you will do daily exercises of this kind, you will have a better posture and figure and will look younger.

Vary your routine—do some of the exercises contained in "Posture Makes the Figure." Send large stamped return envelope for this leaflet, and address your request to Ida Jean Kain, in care of The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Your Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Astrologist.

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21-April 19 (ARIES)—The most important time of the day for taking important action along all lines appears to be after 12:30 noon. An excellent period for constructive work in matters of finances, personal advancement, constructive planning for future prospects and interviewing or consulting people in important positions.

April 20-May 20 (TAURUS)—Poise and calmness will be necessary through 12:29 noon in all dealings. Between 12:30 noon and 3:42 p. m. favors dealings with those in high positions, those who are at the head of affairs, dealings in finances and important business affairs. After 3:42 p. m. favors social matters and sports.

May 21-June 20 (GEMINI)—Before 1:03 p. m. holds conservative influences, favoring matters of a substantial nature, getting at things in a positive way and finishing work that has been dragging. After 1:03 p. m. radical changes or departure from ordinary proceedings should be guarded.

June 21-July 22 (CANCER)—Today is probably the most auspicious day of the week, favoring writings, communications, changes, adopting a new viewpoint. An excellent day for contacting those in authority, and for seeking favors.

July 23-August 22 (LEO)—An excellent day for dealings with matters pertaining to the general public, professional people and politics. Some excellent results should be attained today. The best aspects of the day operate previous to 2:20 p. m.

August 23-September 22 (VIRGO)—The morning hours and until 2 p. m. do not especially favor dealing in those things that you desire to be stable. After 2 p. m. favors dealings with women and professional people.

September 23-October 22 (LIBRA)—After 10:47 a. m. favors practical work and dealings with people of a conservative nature, but does not especially favor making sudden changes. The period suggests sticking to routine.

October 23-November 21 (SCORPIO)—The entire day is a time to be cautious. The feelings of people around you may be extremely sensitive, or you may be extremely sensitive, or you may meet chilly receptions, which is not conducive towards getting good results. Dealings with women or work pertaining to the needs of women bring some bright spots during the day.

November 22-December 21 (SAGITTARIUS)—Before 10:05 a. m. may be a slow period and you may find it difficult to keep affairs going. The remainder of the day seems filled with favorable influences, making it an auspicious period to seek favors, consultations, for dealings with older people, financial transactions, legal affairs, and travel.

December 22-January 19 (CAPRICORN)—The entire day is suited to unimportant affairs, although your energy and vitality will be abundant. Because of feelings of intensity, which may not be well directed, you should guard against unexpected situations or developments and do not undertake radical moves.

January 20-February 18 (AQUARIUS)—Whatever you want to accomplish, try and start before 9:21 a. m. and after 3:04 p. m. for you can advance your position at this time. At this time, do not make new changes.

February 19-March 20 (PISCES)—The entire day and until 7:53 p. m. favors mechanical and industrial works, finances, educational and legal affairs, but suggests caution in works around liquids, chemicals and drugs. After 7:53 p. m. your emotions and feelings should be thoroughly controlled, for you may encounter active antagonism.

Interest in Some Work Is Cure for Broken Heart

By Dixie George.

Dear Dixie:

I am so mixed up I do not know what to do. I am a married woman with one child, whom I love very much. I began going with my husband when I was 16, and we went together for two years before we were married. At first I thought that I loved him when he asked me to marry him, but my parents said that I could not marry because I was too young, and he was a number of years older.

But then before my marriage, I began to wonder if I really loved him or not, for I began to tire of dating at such regular times, and he did not want me dating anyone else. But I married him, thinking that I would learn to love him as I should after we were married. He loved me so much, and was so good to me until I just could not hurt him by telling him the truth.

We have been married for 10 years now, and I have tried to make him a good wife. He has always been good to me and loves me very much. But here is the point: I have fallen madly in love with one of my best friend's husband. I love him so much that he is on my mind day and night, and I cannot even sleep for thinking of him. We do not date and never will, but we see each other every day. He seems to like me very much, and is a good man. I think a great deal of his wife. I know I cannot help loving him. I also know this is a heartache which I will have to keep to myself, for we both have a child. Must I stop seeing him so much, or persuade my husband to move to some other town?

WORRIED MIND.

Where you made your first mistake was marrying so young and marrying a man whom you were not sure you loved. You have lived to realize the folly of the situation. Kindness and consideration from others is usually one of the requisites of love and it seems to me after 10 years with a husband who was good and kind to you that you would have learned to love him.

You are quite right when you say the feeling you have for him is a heartache which you try to persuade your husband to move to another city to live. Why pull up stakes and move away because of another woman's husband whose feeling for you were to be that of a friend and nothing more? Why break up your home for something that holds no security in the future? Perhaps you had better stop seeing the other couple for awhile, and I think in addition to stopping this, you better interest yourself in something to get your mind off yourself.

Commander To Escort Bride To Altar Before Joining Fleet

By SALLY FORTH.

• • • BETTY STOUTENBURGH and her fiancé, Ensign William Jackson Holland, U. S. N. R., were planning the wedding for the late fall until the United States Navy summoned Betty's father, Lieutenant Commander D. Ward Harrigan, to immediate duty with the Pacific fleet.

Now Betty, like all girls, expected to ascend the bridal aisle with her distinguished father. Uncle Sam's sudden need of his services in Pacific waters threw somewhat of a "monkey wrench" into her plans, but she and Billy, her handsome fiancé, proved their resourcefulness by electing to be married tomorrow!

The ceremony will take place at 5:30 o'clock at the Cathedral of Christ the King, with the stunning bride being escorted to the altar by her father, who, until he received his orders a few days ago, was commander of the Naval Reserve Aviation Base here.

Ann Pappenheimer will be maid of honor for Betty, and Martha Frost will be bridesmaid. Roline Adair will keep the bride's book at the reception at which Commander and Mrs. Harrigan will entertain after the ceremony at the Driving Club.

Harry L. Holland Jr. will be his brother's best man, and usher-groomsman will be Dr. David Smith, Lieutenant Hugh Hailey, U. S. N. R.; Emerson Gardner, Anderson, Channon, and Ensign R. W. Horn, U. S. N. R. Monsignor Joseph Moylan will officiate at the brilliant nuptials.

The groom-elect arrives today from Corpus Christi, Texas, where he is stationed, and his arrival will be heralded by the rehearsal party to be given this evening by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Holland, at their home on Collier road.

• • • GEORGIA friends of Mrs. Solly Powell Singley, of Prosperity, S. C., will be interested to learn that she has composed the words and music to a song that has been officially accepted by the Ninth Division, at Fort Bragg, N. C., as its marching song!

The song was approved by General Manton S. Eddy, the division commander, and was dedicated by Mrs. Singley to her brother, Lieutenant Colonel Grason C. Powell, judge advocate of the Ninth Division.

Mrs. Singley was born and reared in Swainsboro, and is a graduate of G. S. C. W. in Milledgeville. While there she composed the alma mater for the school. She is a well-known musician, and has sung over the radio in Savannah and Atlanta.

Her song is called "The 9th Division March," and was played over the North Carolina victory network last week by the Division Artillery Band. Mrs. Singley appeared on the program, singing a solo. The song also appeared on a nation-wide NBC hook-up Saturday evening that celebrated the second anniversary of the Ninth Division.

Mrs. Singley is the daughter of Mrs. John R. Powell Sr. and the late John R. Powell, of Swainsboro.

• • • AN ATTRACTIVE visitor here for the weekend was dark-haired, dark-eyed Dahlis Smith, of Rome, who was the guest of Grace Arrington (Mrs. Willett) Kempton at her home on Peachtree street, Grace and Dahlis are lifelong friends, both being native Romans. The latter's stay with Grace held double significance, for not only was she "coming up" on news concerning Grace and Willett, but she also was busy trousseau shopping. Her marriage to Lieutenant Thomas McGoldrick, flight surgeon, U. S. N., now stationed at Pensacola, will be a social event of September 5.

The daughter of Dr. and Mrs. George Smith, of Rome, Dahlis recently was graduated from the Parsons School of Design, in New York. And it was while there that she met her fiancé, a native New Yorker, who was on the staff of the New York hospital. Their engagement was announced several weeks ago, and because of military duty, their marriage will be performed in Pensacola rather than in the home city of the bride-elect.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10. (P)—

The war news, while remaining as a stock market buying brake, failed to disturb general trends today and price changes, on the whole, held to an extremely narrow area.

The list was ragged from the start and mildly irregular tendencies prevailed at the close of one of the slowest sessions in two years.

Bonds were mixed and commodities lower.

Tilting forward in the curb were Brewster Aero, American Cyanamid, American Gas, Penn-rod and Pennsylvania Salt.

Insurance Company of North America fell 1-4 and lesser minus marks were recorded for Cities Service, Pittsburgh Plate Glass and Gulf Oil.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10. (P)—

The war news, while remaining as a stock market buying brake, failed to disturb general trends today and price changes, on the whole, held to an extremely narrow area.

The list was ragged from the start and mildly irregular tendencies prevailed at the close of one of the slowest sessions in two years.

Bonds were mixed and commodities lower.

Tilting forward in the curb were Brewster Aero, American Cyanamid, American Gas, Penn-rod and Pennsylvania Salt.

Insurance Company of North America fell 1-4 and lesser minus marks were recorded for Cities Service, Pittsburgh Plate Glass and Gulf Oil.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Following is the tabulation of today's stock transactions on the New York Stock Exchange:

Pilot Escapes In Crash Here

A Navy pilot narrowly escaped serious injury Sunday when he sideswiped a tree while making a forced landing at the small field in Lakewood park.

The flyer, Lieutenant (j. g.) Robert L. Gittus, of the Naval Air Station at Norfolk, Va., received minor cuts on the face, Lieutenant Ted Mann, public relations officer for the Naval Reserve Air Base here, reported.

The plane, Lieutenant Mann pointed out, apparently struck a small tree, then a larger one.

'Bugs' Baer Says:

There is sure a lot of second-guessing going on in military affairs among our Colonel Blimps.

I think there are more people running our Army than are in it.

I'm inclined to be a strategical sharp-shooter myself after my second glass of beer. It would be a pretty good idea if all of us stopped popping off and kept quiet in the ten-cent seats.

Wars aren't won in swivel chairs, leaning against bars, in club windows facing Park avenue, gazing into crystal globes, spreading rumors, or sticking colored pins in maps.

War is still an outdoor sport, summer and winter.

Southern Folk Are Tops, Says Yankee Cadet

Sold on Hospitality, Lawson Patient Plans To Move South.

Southern hospitality, a wonderful climate, and Atlanta and southern folks in general combined to capture the Yankee heart of a young Chicago aviation cadet, while a patient in the Lawson General hospital.

Cadet James B. Kellogg, now stationed at Kelly Field, Texas, is so completely sold on the south that he plans to make Atlanta his home after the war, according to a letter received by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce from his father, Blaine J. Kellogg, of Chicago.

The elder Kellogg wrote the letter to thank Atlanta citizens for entertaining the boys in uniform. His son was released from the Atlanta hospital in April after a five-month stay.

Born and reared in Chicago, young Kellogg told his family that the southern people are the finest in the United States and he is looking forward to the day when he can settle here and become one of them.
